[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MAY 13.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—In the House to-day the Speaker presented a letter to-day from General Grant giving the votes on the Constitutions of the Southern States, viz: North Carolina 92,590 for 71,820 against; South Carolina, 70,758 for 27,288 against; Georgia, 89,007 for 71,309 against; Louisiana, 66,152 for 48,739 against; Alabama 59,80[illegible] for 1,005 against.

Schenck from the Committee on Ways and Means reported a bill to reduce to one act and amend the internal revenue laws. The bill provides that the Revenue Bureau shall be a department of the Government independent of the Treasury, a Commissioner to be head thereof, and to have full power over the appointment and removal of officers without consulting the President or Senate. All revenue agents and inspectors are dispensed with. All business is placed under complete control of collectors and assessors in their respective districts and their appointees. Tax on tobacco and cigars per thousand unchanged; special taxes increased; stamp duties and incomes remain the same as heretofore. Tax on petroleum is 10 per cent per gallon as fixed by the late supplementary act. Legacies and distributions to heirs are the same as heretofore and stamp duty on beer and ale is unchanged. The law in all its provisions is very stringent. Distillers are to register and have sworn statements of their capacity and to pay a tax on at least eighty per cent of their registered capacity at times when their furnace doors are not locked and sealed. No license is to be granted to a distiller unless he is owner in fee simple of real estate on which the building stands, nor if there is any mortgage, nor unless the building is situated more than six hundred feet from any rectifying establishment. Keepers are to be appointed in each Judicial District by the Commissioner to be paid by the revenue department, to keep full and complete books, to be changed at the pleasure of the Commissioner from the monthly returns of both the collectors and commissioner. One or more guagers are provided for each collection district to be appointed by the commissioner assigned to duty by the collector, their bonds being five thousand dollars.

Collectors of ports of entry have charge of all exports subject to tax, and if more than one, the Commissioner is to designate the one to superintend the exports and drawbacks. His salary shall not be over three thousand dollars, and he is to have charge of all papers and matters relating to exports and drawbacks. The Commissioner is to designate the export warehouse at each port for storage, and distilled spirits in bond for export are not to be connected with any other building, and 600 feet from any rectifying establishment or distillery. Distilled spirits are to be withdrawn on order of the Collector in charge of the exports for immediate transport to vessels. Spirits may be withdrawn and transported in bond from class "A" warehouses in which they are stored, to export warehouses, on application of the distiller or owner of the spirits to the Collector of the District under such regulations as may be prescribed. All papers issued in these transfers are to be in duplicate and to be open to inspection by all revenue officers.

The bill prescribes great care on the part of all officers in receiving spirits at their destination. The provisions for withdrawing spirits from bond for various purposes cover considerable ground and are very stringent in their character. The Commissioner may appoint a Supervisor of Internal Revenue in each Judicial District, whose duty it shall be to carefully supervise and examine the whole official conduct of the Collectors and Assessors and report directly to the Commissioner.

The committee had a long discussion on the rate of tax on whisky, and lacked but one vote finally upon the proposition to reduce to seventy five cents. This failing, it was agreed to leave it at two dollars. The bill was ordered printed and re-committed, Schenck giving notice that he would bring the bill back to the House within a week or ten days. Two or three days will be allowed for general discussion, and the amplest opportunity for amendment and deliberation on all parts of the bill.

Price, from the committee on the Pacific railroad, reported a joint resolution to construe the provisions of the Pacific railroad acts regarding the use of American iron, so as to declare that American iron shall be used for all rails, chairs, bars, bolts and spikes used in laying and repairing the road, which passed.

Price also reported back a substitute for the joint resolution introduced some time since, by Washburne of Wisconsin, to regulate the tariff for freight and passengers on the Union and Central Pacific railroads and their branches. The substitute provides for a board of commissioners, to consist of the Secretary of War, Secretary of the Interior and Attorney General, to establish annually a tariff of freight and passage, provided that it shall not take effect until there shall be a continuous line of railroad completed and in running order from Omaha to Sacramento.

After considerable debate, Price moved the previous question, which was seconded.

Raum's motion to recommit was lost, and the question recurred on the amendment offered by Washburne, of Illinois, to strike out the provision, "shall not take effect until there shall be a complete and continuous line from Omaha to Sacramento." This was adopted. Ayes 76, noes 41.

The question then recurred on the amendment offered by Clark of Kansas, that the tariff shall not exceed double the averaged rates charged on the different lines of railroads between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic ocean in latitudes North of St. Louis, which was agreed to without division. The joint resolution as amended passed by 70 to 47. Adjourned.

Washington News

CHICAGO, May 12.—Specials say Forney has resigned as Secretary of the Senate, objections having been made to his editorial comments on the acts of certain Senators.

Senator Howard's illness is from brain fever. His absence was the cause for the postponement of the vote on the impeachment articles.

The Court adjourned immediately upon passing the resolution of postponement.

The Senate concurred in the House amendment to the bill extending the charter of Washington City, and then adjourned.

The Republican's special thinks the necessary two-thirds vote will be secured, including the vote of Senator Wade, who has authorized the announcement that if his vote shall be necessary to secure his conviction, he will resign his position as President.

The feeling against Senators Fessenden and Trumbull, is very strong. The latter was hooted at on the streets last night while going home. The Maine delegation in the lower House held a meeting and decided to wait upon Fessenden and demand that he vote in accordance with the expressed wishes of his State or resign. The Illinois members of Congress went in a body this morning and made the same demand upon Trumbull. His reply has not yet transpired.

The case of John A. Surratt came up to-day but was continued until the June term. A motion was made to release the prisoner on bail, which will be discussed to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The United States Marshal of St. Louis has applied for a cavalry force to assist in arresting distillers engaged in violating the tax laws.

The General Conference of the Zion colored church has appointed Friday next as a day of fasting and prayer to God to aid the Senate to give a verdict in aid of suffering humanity.

Speculations about the Result of Impeachment.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Specials say that every form of pressure is being brought to bear upon doubtful Senators.

Mr. Henderson has received a number of telegrams from Missouri asking him to resign. The entire Missouri delegation are endeavoring to influence him.

The Iowa delegates held a meeting and resolved not to recognize Mr. Grimes as a member of the Republican party.

Mr. Forney having resigned as Secretary of the Senate will open his batteries on Senators Fessenden, Henderson, Grimes and Trumbull, denouncing them as recreant to the party.

Telegrams have been sent out to get up popular demonstrations, especially in New England.

The doubtful are now composed of the following Senators: Anthony, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Ross, Sprague, VanWinkle and Willey. It is believed that Anthony, Frelinghuysen and Sprague are certain to vote for conviction, so the President must have both of the West Virginia Senators and Fowler to insure an acquittal. These three, to say the least, are doubtful.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Tribune of this morning says that confidential dispatches were received late last night by the editors of the Tribune which leaves doubts if the Senate will convict on Saturday.

A leading friend of Mr. Johnson considers conviction doubtful and regards the chances about even.

A sagacious Republican has said that Senator Anthony is safe and that Senator Willey is sure for two articles and VanWinkle on the 11th.

Horse Flesh for Food.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Henry Bergh, President of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, lectured before that society last night, in favor of horseflesh for food. The society rejected a vote recommending horse flesh for that purpose, by nearly a unanimous vote.

English News

NEW YORK, May 13.—English papers of the 1st state that it was announced in London that by the Clerkenwell explosion six persons were killed outright, six more died from its effects, and five more owe their deaths indirectly to it. One young man is in the mad house; forty mothers were prematurely confined, and twenty of their children died. Many of the children are dwarfed. One mother is a raving maniac. Twelve persons were wounded, fifty went into hospital and are permanently injured. Besides this £20,000 worth of damage was done to property.

Members of the Wigan Miners' Union had a meeting, 65,000 were reported. A resolution was adopted directing that the reduction of sixteen per cent. in wages shall be resisted, and no terms accepted which shall take from the present wages more than the last advance. It was resolved that the strike should continue.

Miscellaneous

NEW YORK, May 12.—Another fearful epidemic is raging in Mauritius, over eighteen hundred deaths are reported.

BOSTON, May 12.—The bill abolishing the State constabulary passed the House to-day, over the Governor's veto.

BY ALANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, May 12.—The Standard says the Queen will take no part in C[illegible] the House of Commons in Irish affairs. [illegible] to the address is said to be favorable.

In the House of Commons this evening the reply of the Queen to the petition of the House [illegible] third [illegible] desire that her interest [illegible] Church will not in any way hinder Parliamentary legislation on that subject. Gladstone will to-morrow bring in a bill to suspend for the present making additional appointments in the Irish Church.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 12.—The Sultan opened the new council yesterday with a speech. He remarked in regard to liberalism that the time had come when Turkish manners must yield to European civilization.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—A destructive fire occurred last night in Schafer's furniture and bedding store, Sansome street, insurance $20,000, which it is thought will not cover the loss.

The P. M. S. S. Company has purchased a large tract of land near Hunter's Point with water front, and their Benicia works will be removed to that point.

A meeting to welcome Col. Judson, (Ned Buntline) the temperance lecturer, will be held this evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—A soldier named Scouger, of company A, 2d U. S. A., hung himself at the Presidio yesterday. No reason for the act ascertained.

The body of John Williams, a sailor belonging to the ship Gilroy, who was drowned at North Point on the 3d instant, was found this forenoon in the bay.

Yesterday the little daughter of Geo. Anderson fell from a balcony, a distance of 20 feet, breaking her jaw, and inflicting internal injuries which it is feared will prove fatal.

Several parties, indicted for cutting timber on public lands, have been presented by the U. S. Grand Jury, and held in $300 bail each.

Work has been resumed throughout the city, on the ten hour system. Many of the men employed by the contractors have recently arrived from the Atlantic States. There has been no further threats among the original strikers.

The statement that the P. M. S. S. Co. would remove their works to Hunter's Point, is contradicted.

Rain fell here last night and at intervals to-day.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 20, 1868.

On Tuesday, the 14th, immediately after assembling, the President's counsel announced that Stanbery was sick, and asked that the impeachment court adjourn until 12 o'clock the following day, which was granted, to the great dissatisfaction of a thousand people who had procured tickets for that day and had got seated in the gallery. The Senate spent the remainder of the day in legislative and executive session, among other things passing a resolution to print 5,000 additional copies of the report of the impeachment trial, and confirming some unimportant nominations.

Wednesday, Stanbery was still absent, but the trial proceeded. Considerable time was spent in another attempt to change the 21st rule so as to allow as many of the managers and of the counsel to speak on the final argument as may choose to do so (instead of two on a side as the rule provides), but all propositions and amendments calculated to encourage speechifying—the greatest nuisance that Congress has to contend with—were promptly voted down. The remainder of the day was spent by Curtis in introducing documentary testimony. But little was done, however, Curtis and Butler spending most of the time in wrangling over the documents, the former insisting on introducing everything, whether applicable to the case or not, and the latter objecting to nearly everything. D. C. Clarke, Executive Clerk of the Senate, and W. S. Moore, Private Secretary of the President, were sworn. The first document attempted to be introduced was the nomination of Thomas Ewing, Sr., for Secretary of War. It was dated Feb. 21, 1868, but was not received by the Senate until the 24th, though the President's Secretary said he brought a document in a sealed envelope, which he supposed to be it, to the Capitol on the 22d, but did not deliver it because the Senate had adjourned. After the impeachment resolution was introduced in the House and referred to a committee on the 21st, the President got scared, and sent in this nomination, dated the 21st, in order to cover up his violation of law. The fact that he appointed Lorenzo Thomas Secretary ad interim, on the 21st, is conclusive evidence that he did not intend, at that time, to nominate a Secretary. This evidence, manufactured by the President in his own favor, and dated back, was excluded by the Chief Justice, no Senator objecting to the decision. Mr. Curtis then offered to put in evidence a tabular statement compiled at the Attorney General's office, containing a list of executive officers of the United States, with the terms of each, and it was ordered to be printed with the proceedings. He then put in evidence papers in the case of the removal of Timothy Pickering by President Adams, substantially the same as had been put in by the Managers. Mr. Curtis then put in evidence certified copies of the appointment by President Tyler, Feb 29, 1844, of John Nelson, Attorney General, to discharge the duties of Secretary of State ad interim, until a successor to Mr. Upshur should be appointed, and of the subsequent confirmation of John C. Calhoun to that office, March 6, 1844; also the appointment, July 23, 1850, by President Fillmore, of Gen. Scott as Secretary of War ad interim, in place of Geo. W. Crawford. One or two other documents were admitted after argument. Mr. Curtis then offered in evidence a document from the Navy Department, being a report or memoranda of the operations of that Department, made out by the Chief Clerk. Butler objected, and after lengthy argument between Butler and Curtis, the Chief Justice ruled the document admissible, and the Senate sustained his decision by a vote of 36 to 15—Corbett voting in the affirmative and Williams in the negative. Another document from the Navy Department, of similar import, was admitted. Curtis then offered a document from the State Department, showing the removal of heads of departments, which, after considerable sparring, was admitted. Mr. Curtis then asked for an order on the Secretary of the Senate for a statement of the dates of the beginning and end of each session of the Senate—executive as well as legislative—from the origin of the Government down to the present time. Mr. Curtis then stated that they had substantially concluded their documentary testimony, and at four o'clock the court adjourned.

Thursday, the 16th, was spent in taking testimony. Mr. Curtis first put in evidence two documents from the State Department, similar to those put in the day before, also two statements furnished by the Secretary of the Senate—one showing the beginning and ending of each legislative session of Congress from 1789 to 1868, and the other the beginning and ending of each special session during the same period. W. S. Cox, a lawyer of this District, who was one of the attorneys for ad interim Thomas, when he was arrested and brought before the criminal court on the 22d of February, was then sworn, and Curtis asked him to state his connection with the case. Butler objected to the testimony as being wholly irrelevant, and a tedious debate followed, participated in by Butler, Wilson, Evarts and Curtis. The Chief Justice decided that the evidence was admissible, and the Senate sustained the decision—29 to 21—Corbett in the affirmative and Williams in the negative. Cox testified that he was employed to defend Thomas by the President. Several other questions were asked, and objected to by Butler, and finally admitted by vote of the Senate, by a small majority each time. The questions asked related to the efforts of Cox to obtain a writ of habeas corpus, and to the official papers in the Thomas case. R. S. Merrick, another attorney in the case, was then examined in reference to the same subject. E. O. Perrin was next sworn. He stated that he had an interview with the President on the 21st of February, in company with Mr. Selye, member of Congress from New York. Evarts wanted to introduce the President's conversation as evidence in his own favor, which would have opened the door for the introduction of his conversations with hundreds of other persons, and prolonged the trial till doomsday. The Chief Justice thought the evidence was admissible under the rulings of the Senate, but the Senate thought otherwise, and excluded it by a vote of 27 to 9, none but Democrats voting for its admission. Senator Conness offered an order to have the Senate meet at 11 o'clock instead of 12, and, after some sparring between Butler and Evarts, without coming to a vote the court adjourned. The day being rainy, there were about as many men as women in the galleries, for the first time since the trial.

On Tuesday the galleries were densely crowded. The weather being fine, the ladies were again out in full force, occupying two-thirds or three fourths of the seats. Secretaries Seward, Randall, Browning, McCulloch and Welles, were on the floor of the Senate all day. The order, offered the previous day, to meet at 11 o'clock instead of 12, was adopted by a vote of 29 to 13—Anthony, Fowler, Grimes, Ross, Trumbull and Van Winkle voting in the negative with the Democrats.

A tabular statement, which had not been read or delivered in the Senate, appearing in the Globe, in connection with some of Butler's remarks the day before, was ordered to be stricken out of the published proceedings of the trial by a unanimous vote of the Senate.

Wm. W. Armstrong, of the Cleveland Plain dealer, was sworn and examined by Curtis in reference to to the President's Cleveland speech. Barton Abel, Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Missouri, was then examined by Curtis in reference to the President's harangue at St. Louis. Geo. Knapp, one of the editors and proprietors of the Missouri Republican, testified in regard to the same speech. H. S. Zider, who reported the speech for the Republican, was then sworn and examined by Curtis and Butler at great length. He stated that there were some sixty variations between the report made by him for the Republican and the one made by Monaghon for the Missouri Democrat, which was put in evidence by the Managers. These differences consisted in punctuation and grammar, with a few other slight omissions of unimportant words. Butler read from the Democrat and Zider corrected from his report in the Republican. The following are specimens:

Butler read—"Judas, Judas Iscariot—Judas—there was a Judas once."

Witness—There is one Judas too much there. [Laughter.]

Butler—You are sure he did not speak 'Judas' four times?

Witness—Yes, sir, he spoke it three times.

Again Butler read, "In the days when there were twelve Apostles, and when there were a Christ, while there were Judasses there were unbelievers, too, yes, while there were Judasses there were unbelievers. [Voice—Hear! Three groans for Fletcher.] Yes, oh, yes! unbelievers in Christ!,"

Witness—The word "were" is spelled four times "ware," and the first time it should be "was."

The reporter for the Republican corrected these little inaccuracies, while the Democrat's reporter spelled the words as the President pronounced them, which was the only difference between the two reports. Curtis then put in the commission of President Adams to General Washington as Lieutenant General of the army. F. W. Seward, Assistant Secretary of State, then testified in regard to the appointment of Consuls and Vice Consuls. Secretary Welles was then sworn. Evarts wanted to introduce the President's statements in regard to Stanton's removal, as made to the cabinet at a meeting on the 21st of February. Butler objected. The Chief Justice decided the evidence admissible, and the Senate sustained his decision—26 to 23. Evarts then proposed to introduce the proceedings of the cabinet, on the 25th of February, 1867, in reference to the tenure of office act. Managers objected, and before the question was decided the court adjourned.

Saturday the 19th, the court met at 11 o'clock, and Secretary Welles was again placed on the stand. The President's counsel persisted in trying to get in the opinions of the cabinet on the tenure of office act before the President vetoed it, as a kind of justification or palliation of his subsequent violation of the law. A lengthy argument followed between Wilson, of the Managers, and Curtis. Senator Williams submitted this question to the counsel: "Is the advice given to the President by his cabinet, with a view of preparing a veto message, pertinent to prove the right of the President to disregard the law after it was passed over his veto?"

After further argument, the Chief Justice decided in favor of admitting the evidence, but the Senate refused to admit it by a vote of 29 to 20. Three other attempts were made to get in the same testimony in a different form, the Chief Justice deciding in favor of its admission, and the Senate refusing to admit it by the following votes: 22 to 26, 19 to 30, 18 to 26. Corbett and Williams both voted each time in the negative. E. B. Welles, son of the Secretary and Chief Clerk of the Department, was next sworn and examined in reference to some unimportant matter. A. W. Randall, Postmaster General, was then sworn. He testified that he suspended Foster Blodgett, Postmaster of Augusta, Ga., because he was informed that Blodgett had been indicted by the grand jury for perjury. On cross examination by Butler, he said Blodgett was indicted for taking the "iron clad oath"—a great offense in the eyes of a rebel grand jury, that he suspended Blodgett without consulting the President, or reporting the case to him afterwards; and that he did it under the "law of necessity," and did not know of any special or general law that authorized him to do it. Another attempt was then made to introduce in evidence the opinions of the of the Cabinet on the tenure of office act, before it was vetoed by the President more than a year ago. The Chief Justice again decided in favor of admitting it, and the Senate again rejected it—20 yeas to 26 nays—Corbett and Williams both in the negative. Evarts then announced that the President's counsel had closed their evidence, unless Stanbery, who was still sick, might have something to offer on Monday, and the court adjourned. The Governors of several States were on the floor of the Senate during the day, Geary of Pennsylvania, Fairchild of Wisconsin, Fletcher of Missouri, and Marshall of Minnesota.

To day the Senate met as a court of impeachment at 11 o'clock. Evarts stated that the President's counsel had no further evidence, that the case was closed on their part. Butler put in evidence the commission issued to Gen. Washington as Commander in Chief of the army. Postmaster General Randall was then recalled and examined by Butler, in reference to the suspension of Postmaster Blodgett. Butler then offered to put in the answer of Blodgett to the order suspending him, and also his reply to the allegations contained in the indictment against him, but the Senate refused to admit these papers, without a decision. He then submitted a list of the various officers of the United States who would be affected by the claim of the President to remove at pleasure and appoint ad interim. The list included 41,558 officers with an annual salary of $31,000,000. Butler then offered the nominations of Sherman and Thomas, in February, to be Generals by brevet, but the Senate ruled this testimony out by 14 to 25. The testimony was then closed on both sides. Boutwell stated that he had been selected to deliver the opening argument on the close of the case, and as he would require an entire day for that purpose, he asked that the court adjourn till to-morrow, so that he could begin at the opening of the session. Evarts stated that in consequence of the indisposition of Stanbery, who was to make the closing argument for the defense, the counsel for the President would like to have an intermission of two days, which was agreed to. Logan then stated that he had prepared an argument which had been printed, and would like to have an opportunity of presenting it to the Senate before the close of the case. A motion to extend the time so that he and others desiring to speak could do so, was objected to, and the court adjourned till 11 o'clock next Wednesday. The arguments will then occupy four or five days, after which the court will go into secret session to agree on a verdict.

Mr. Hinds, an Arkansas member of Congress elect, has arrived here and filed his credentials with the Clerk of the House of Representatives. The other members, Messrs. Boles and Bowles are expected here in a few days. If, on investigation, it shall appear that the Constitution received a majority of all the registered votes, as is claimed, they and the Senators elect—Messrs. Rice and McDonald—will be admitted to their seats as soon as the impeachment trial is over.

Returns from the election in Louisiana on the 17th and 18th inst. indicate that the Constitution of that State has been ratified by a large majority. The returns from South Carolina [illegible] that the new Constitution of that State has also been ratified by a large majority, and Federal State officers and members of Cong[ress] [illegible].

The Virginia Constitutional Convention finished its labors and adjourned at midnight on the 17th. The vote for the ratification of the Constitution and the election of members of Congress and State officers will be taken on the 2d of June next. Gen. Schofield and other leading Union men denounce the Constitution on account of the iron-clad oath embodied in it, and say it ought to be and will be defeated.

Sergeant Bates, who was hired by the Copperheads to carry the American flag from Vicksburg to Washington, for the purpose of demonstrating to the world that the rebels would not shoot a man for carrying a flag in their midst, (when they knew it was being done in their interest) arrived here last Tuesday, and was met by Doolittle and other Copperheads at the Long Bridge and afterwards taken to the White House, where Andy presented him with a purse containing $50 in notes. He came to the capitol to carry the flag up to the dome. Permission was granted to him and his committee to go up with the flag, but they refused because the crowd could not go up with them, and the Copperhead papers have since been filled with tirades about Congress excluding this ambitious youth and his flag from the Capital. A flag always waves over each House of Congress when in session, and is the signal by which their [illegible] are made known to the whole city, but neither that nor the fact that Bates was authorized to go up, prevents the Copperheads from charging Congress with excluding the flag from the Capitol. Bates is as great a humbug as the men who engage in peddling out this lie, which has not even the merit of plausibility.

It has been observed throughout the impeachment trial that the rulings of the Chief Justice have almost invariably been favorable to the President. His course has been very unsatisfactory to Republicans generally, and I think nine-tenths of the "Chase men," or Radical Republicans, who preferred Chase for President a few months ago, would now rather trust Grant with the administration of the Government than Chase. Several Republican Senators have almost invariably voted with the Democrats to admit evidence, no matter how inapplicable to the case. Among the number are Ross of Kansas, Grimes of Iowa, Fowler of Tennessee, Van Winkle of West Virginia, and not unfrequently, Sumner of Massachusetts, Trumbull of Illinois, Fessenden of Maine, Henderson of Missouri, and Anthony of Rhode Island.

A great many rumors have been put in circulation. One—which I do not credit, however—is that the "whisky ring," which includes many leading Copperheads, have raised a million dollars with which to influence votes enough to acquit the President, and many Democrats believe that he will be acquitted. The Great Trial

In Macaulay's celebrated account of the trial by impeachment of Warren Hastings, it is remarked that "whatever confidence may be placed in the decision of the Peers on an appeal arising out of an ordinary litigation, it is certain that no man has the least confidence in their impartiality, when a great public functionary, charged with a great State crime, is brought to the bar. They are all politicians. There is hardly one among them whose vote on an impeachment may not be confidently predicted before a witness has been examined." If reports which are received from Washington be true, remarks like these will not be applied to the American Senate. Though in truth, the impeachment of an American President must always partake of the nature of a party act. Take the present case. Andrew Johnson has his political supporters who would not vote for his conviction, no matter what might be the nature of his offence. This action of his partisan supporters, who may be counted on to adhere to him under all circumstances, gives this great trial the color of a party proceeding. But if Johnson shall be acquitted, it cannot be claimed by his partisans that his political opponents, who have power to convict him, are not strictly impartial.

Several Union Senators, it is said, have taken the ground that the tenure-of-office act does not apply to Secretary Stanton's case, and therefore the President in removing him has not violated the law. This view may be the correct one. But in that case it will devolve on these Senators to explain to the country the reasons and motives of their former actions. The President first suspended Stanton under the tenure-of-office act, as he himself stated to witnesses, and also in an official communication to the Senate, when it assembled in December last. The Senate held the President's reasons for the suspension insufficient, and decided that Stanton should go back into the War Office in compliance with the provisions of the act. This resolution received the unanimous support of the Union Senators. But it now appears that some who took this view and acted in this manner have recently come to the conclusion that Secretary Stanton is not within the tenure-of-office law. Senators Grimes, Fessenden, Trumbull and others, by whose votes Stanton was reinstated last winter on the ground that the President had no right to remove him, now assume, it is said, that the President had this right, since, in their opinion, the civil tenure act does not apply to the Secretary of War. We do not complain of this last decision. It may be the correct interpretation of the law. But if it be correct, the people have a right to complain of the former action of their Senators. Men in this exalted station have no right to trifle with the grave duties which are intrusted to them.

Again, when the President removed Secretary Stanton in February last and appointed Lorenzo Thomas Secretary ad interim, the Senate as soon as informed of the fact, passed a resolution by a strict party vote, declaring that in making the removal the President had "violated the Constitution and laws of the United States." It is now reported that several of the Senators who voted for this resolution declare that the President's action was not in violation of law. What explanation they will give, or how they will undertake to reconcile the inconsistencies of these opposite positions, remains to be seen. Without questioning the entire correctness of their decision in the trial of impeachment, we are interested in knowing what justification they have to offer for their former action, which is so greatly inconsistent with the position they now assume.

That the House would never have presented the articles had it not been for the stand which the Senate took, is an obvious fact. The Senators who voted to reinstate Stanton and who now declare that the President had a right to remove him, are responsible both for the trial and the failure, if, indeed, it shall prove a failure. They are the authors of this trifling with matters of the greatest moment; and if any blame is to be meted out by any party, it must fall on them.

We believe that a large majority of the loyal people of the country are in favor of the conviction of Andrew Johnson and his removal from office. But if he is not convicted they will accept the result, with some chagrin it is true, but with their disappointment relieved to a great extent by the fact that, since the trial has been continued so long, he has but a few months more to serve, and also by a knowledge that reconstruction has now advanced so far that he cannot do what he will, defeat its consummation.

We have never given the smallest credit to the assertion which has been heard in some quarters that the failure of impeachment would be the ruin of the Union party. To argue that that party rests solely on this measure as a basis, is a foolish absurdity. It claims to be founded on certain great principles of government and of public policy, and has vindicated this claim before the people of the country. Its principles have long had a powerful hold upon the national heart, and public confidence in its integrity and the justness of its aims was never stronger than at this moment. There must be a party to support the great principles which the Union party has so successfully maintained. Therefore that party must both continue its existence and continue to shape the policy of the country. It has preserved our nationality, and its principles are the only principles on which the nation can permanently stand. It is absurd to assert that a party so founded can be utterly demoralized and obliterated by a mere incident which, in the career of government, comes up for judgment in a constitutional way.

AN ILLUSTRATION.—The proposed fourteenth amendment to the Constitution provides that all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and declares that no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens. It also provides that if any State shall deny the suffrage to any class of citizens, the basis of representation in such State shall be reduced proportionately. This clearly leaves the exercise of the suffrage to be regulated by the States; yet we find Copperheads with their usual dishonesty declaring that under this amendment Congress will have power to interfere with the suffrage. The right of the States respectively to control the exercise of the elective franchise is expressly affirmed by the amendment; but this express declaration amounts to nothing with those whose vocation it is to misrepresent and mislead. They are not to be deterred by such trifles as the opposition of plain facts. While the amendment leaves the control of the suffrage to the States it equalizes representation in such a way as to give the Northern people an equal chance with the ex slave States in Congress and in Presidential elections. To illustrate: Vermont and New Hampshire have a white population equal to that of Mississippi and Louisiana. Each of the last named States also has a black population equal to its white population. Vermont and New Hampshire each has three Representatives in Congress. The policy which the ex rebels and their Copperhead allies are trying to adopt would give Mississippi and Louisiana each six Representatives in Congress and a proportionate number of votes in the Electoral College,—the negro being used by the advocates of a "white man's government" as a basis for half this power. It is this inequality which the Union party protests against, and it is this which constitutes one of the great reasons for adopting the fourteenth amendment.

Nobody is astonished at any exhibition of impudence by the Herald, therefore nobody is astonished at seeing in that paper an article accusing its political opponents in this county of "quartering on the people" and "sponging upon the public treasury" because they have in two or three occasions used the Court House for holding political meetings. Expressions of the kind we have quoted come with charming grace from that paper, a beggarly starveling concern which is "quartered on the people" of the city, and which would have given up the ghost long ago, except for the gratuities which have been furnished it by its partisans from the city treasury. Its propensity for "sponging upon the public treasury" was indulged last year to the extent of $1,200, and this year the indulgence of the same propensity promises to cost "the tax ridden people,"—adopting one of its own favorite expressions,—about double that amount. The whole people are thus taxed to support the "organ" of a clique, which has not ability enough as a newspaper to keep it from starvation. This concern, which is supported wholly—so far as it has any vitality—by pickings and stealings of various kinds from the pockets of the people, only manifests its usual shamelessness by talking in the manner it has done. As to using the Court House, we merely remark that it has been occupied on these two or three occasions because there was no other hall in the city which could be obtained. The Court House, however, is a public building, and any party has a right to use it. When the Republicans use it, the expense for gas etc., they pay out of their own pockets.

The La Crosse Democrat contains the following mysterious announcement: "On Thursday, April 23, 1868, we shall be prepared to furnish all parties to organize for the protection of life and liberty, white supremacy, State equality and equal taxation, the several blanks and instructions necessary in the formation of legions for the more rapid and effectual advancement of the grand national Democratic civil and military movement now on foot throughout the United States. Address M. M. Pomeroy, La Crosse, Wisconsin." This "grand national Democratic movement" will probably be found worth watching.

The coolest thing yet—to think of that eleemosynary institution, the Herald, denouncing the Radical propensity for "sponging upon the public treasury!"

STATE ITEMS.

The Blue Mountain Times says that on the night of the 4th inst., eighteen head of horses were stolen near Baker City. Twelve of the same belonged to A. Dain, who spent the winter in La Grande. There seems to be a regularly organized band of horse thieves in Baker county. Probably most of the robberies committed in the Shasta, Rye Valley and Burnt river districts, and which are attributed to Indians, are the deviltries of men of white blood.

The body of an unknown man was found a few days ago in Powder river valley, near the old King bridge. It was supposed that he came to his death by heart disease. His undershirt was marked with the initials "C. R." There were no other means of identification.

A new quartz mill is on the way to the Eagle Creek mines. It belongs to the La Grande Gold and Silver Mining Company.

Grain is being hauled from Grande Ronde valley to Camp Harney.

Chinamen are buying up all the mining ground about Auburn, and in a short time will have undisputed possession of that locality.

There are many prospecting parties out searching for gold in Union, Baker and Grant counties.

A drove of 1,200 head of cattle passed through Roseburg one day last week, on the way South.

Twelve wagons, accompanied by sixteen men and thirty women and children, left Union county about a week ago for the "Atlantic States."

The Union men of Douglas county are betting all the money they can get taken on the election of Logan.

The Sentinel says the indications are that the wheat crop of Rogue river valley will be entirely too heavy, and that it will break up most of the farmers to harvest it.

LETTER FROM PHILIP RITZ.—We find in the Walla Walla Statesman, a letter from Mr. Philip Ritz, who has lately spent several months at Washington City working for the Northern Pacific Railroad, and who has just been commissioned to explore the Salmon river valley for a route. He says:

"At the time that the citizens of this valley are taking such an interest in agitating the construction of a railroad from the Columbia river to this place the Northern Pacific Railroad Company are looking forward to the examination of the country along the Salmon river, with a view of running a line down the Salmon river to its mouth, and thence by the most direct, practicable route to the Columbia river, Puget Sound and Portland. I believe that most of the public spirited citizens of our country are convinced that a road can be built and sustained successfully from Wallula to this place at the present time. I am fully satisfied that if the line was built, or even commenced in good earnest, that it would have a great influence in attracting the direction of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to this place, and that the Northern Pacific Railroad will be built, and that it will be the great paying route across the continent, I am fully satisfied.

My object in writing at this time is to call out all the information possible on the character of the country immediately along Salmon river, from its mouth up to Lemhi, as that is the only part of the route which is not known to be entirely practicable. The company claim that the advantages of this route in securing large bodies of valuable lands on the Yellowstone and Bighorn, and the excellent pass through the Rocky Mountains, on the head waters of the Salmon river, the mildness of the winters and the small amount of snow that falls on the Yellowstone, Bighorn and in the Salmon river Country, are sufficient to justify any reasonable amount of expenditure in opening a line down Salmon river. But their great object in examining this route is to lay down a line in the direction of San Francisco, along on or near the base of the Blue Mountains, by Klamath Lakes, and the head waters of the Sacramento river into California, furnishing San Francisco with a road east, without crossing the Sierra Nevada mountains, and running through a country susceptible of settlement all the way, instead of crossing the Sierra Nevada at an elevation which has been proved during the last winter to be impracticable during a great portion of the winter months, and also to avoid passing over the Great American Desert between Virginia City and Salt Lake."

FROM THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

Details of the Great Volcanic Eruption.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin writes as follows from Honolulu, April 14th:

The volcano has now assumed grand proportions, and is making sad havoc in some of the districts of Hawaii. In the districts of Kona and Kau over fifteen hundred earthquakes have been experienced by the inhabitants, and many of them heavy and very severe. The heaviest, however, occurred on Thursday, the 2d inst., and was felt over the whole group. On Hawaii the destruction was heavy and over 100 people perished. In the Kau district every house was prostrated with the exception of one or two; stone walls were thrown down, so that hardly one stone lay upon another. The district was visited with the greatest possible destruction. Perhaps it will be best to give your readers the fullest particulars of Madam Pele in as short a space as possible, so we will commence with the Island of where Mauna Loa is convulsed with eternal fires. The eruption is on the very summit of Mauna Loa, at a place known by the natives as [illegible]. When the eruption first broke out five different jets of lava were thrown up at one time, and the columns of smoke arising from the crater reach an altitude of 72 miles before fanning out. The crater of the volcano was difficult to get to, and but few persons have ever gained its rim, and gazed down into its profound and enormous gulf, 1,000 feet below the eye of the spectator. The ascent will now be comparatively easy, as the lava has found vent through the side of the mountain, and is now running in one immense stream down through the district of Kahuku, into the sea.

EARTHQUAKE OF APRIL 2D.

The earthquake of the 2d of April in this district was terrible in the extreme. At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon there came a loud, rumbling noise, from the south. Presently the earth hove to and fro, vibrating from south to north, then east and west, from that it seemed to go round and round, accompanied by an upheaving and receding motion, all of which were most violent, throwing people from their feet and prostrating them upon the ground, and they apparently bracing themselves to keep from rolling about. Walls and houses were thrown down, and trees and rocks tossed in all directions. Land slides were innumerable and fearful, rushing downwards like avalanches, burying people, houses and cattle beneath them, the horses and stock of every description rushed and ran about in wild dismay, while some were almost transfixed with stupor and fright. An earth eruption was thrown out of the side of the mountain, and rushed with lightning speed down the mountain slope, throwing death's mantle over all that came within its headless, reckless course, which had attained a distance of three miles in less than that number of minutes.

DESTRUCTIVE TIDAL WAVE.

Nor was this all. Along the beach came a tidal wave over thirty feet in height, which extended along the coast for a distance of fifty miles. This came in washing right over the cocoanut trees, and running some distance inland carrying out a small native village (with the exception of two houses) and all persons that were within reach at the time, some thirty seven souls, the rest of the village barely escaping. Two large pulu warehouses were carried out to sea, one with some 150 bales of pulu, being the property of James C. King of your city. Towards the southern point of the island a long chain of black looking substance was seen to come out of the sea and go under twice. This was seen by several, and some say that it was an island that was thrown up, but it was probably part of the islands thrown out of the water by the powerful upheaving and receding motion which was experienced in the earthquake which happened at the same time. All the foreign residents of these districts took warning when the first earthquake came on, and lived outside in tents, which was undoubtedly their salvation, as now their houses are now in ruins. Since the heavy earthquake many have left, some going into other districts, but many have been coming here and going into Hilo.

EARTHQUAKE AT HILO.

At Hilo the earthquake of the 2d was felt pretty sensitively. It came on at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the same as over the rest of the Island. Here the earthquake was heavy enough to destroy a few houses, and shake all the crockeryware, etc., off the shelves. Three families have left their houses for good, having been rendered uninhabitable, through the demoralizing influence of the earthquake. The Hilo drug store was cleaned out of all its stock nearly, as every glass bottle or jar was shaken off on to the floor and broken. The proprietors loss in this case is, unquestionably, the people of Hilo's gain. The sea here, rose some ten feet, and washed in some distance, carrying away stone walls, etc., but doing no serious damage. In several parts of the town, cracks have been opened in the streets, from one to seven inches in width. The chimneys of the Onomea, Kaiwiki and Spencer plantations have been shaken to the ground, and it is feared more damage has been done to the works of these plantations, which will show when they are in full blast. A great many shocks have been felt in and around Hilo, but further than mentioned, no serious damage has been done on this Island.

THE EARTHQUAKE AT MAUI.

You will please accompany me over to Maui. Only a couple of dozen shocks have been felt here, but the one of Thursday, the 2d of April, was the most severe, and came as near as possible to making destruction without doing it. This earthquake was felt all over the Island, and at Lahaina the sea was seen to recede, and ebbed and flowed thirteen times, as was the case in the bay of Kawaihae, on the Island of Hawaii.

AT MOLOKAI AND LANAI.

On the Islands of Molokai and Lanai, which are very near Maui, shocks are experienced, and a tidal disturbance similar to that at Lanaina and Kawaihae was observed. Of course, the most has already been said, and in fact there is nothing left to enlarge.

AT OAHU.

On this Island, the first symptoms of earthquake we experienced was on Thursday, the 2d, and was strong enough to set things that were suspended in air vibrating in a direction north and south, and stopped several clocks in town, among them the town clock. We also had a tidal phenomenon, but it was just gigantic enough to see. To give an unbiassed opinion, I should say that the tidal wave, as seen at Honolulu, must have been at least thirty feet high. On Friday evening we were again favored with a little more earthquake between 12 and 1 A. M., and had two distinct shocks—so those that felt them say.

The earthquake of Thursday was felt all over this Island, but no damage was done. Kauai was undisturbed, as the people on that Island did not realize a shock, or even expect such a thing, so you can imagine they were rather quiet. The Island of Kauai must be disconnected from the rest of the Hawaiian groupe, as it has not as yet, felt the least effect from the volcano.

PHENOMENA AT SEA.

On Thursday, April 2d, Captain Ludlow, of the whaleship, reports being off Hawaii, and experienced several shocks at sea, and that he saw millions of tons of earth falling down into the sea which were loosened from the cliffs that bound the northern shore of Hawaii. Captain Hunting of the whale bark Fancy was off the Kaus coast and at 4 P. M., on the 2d instant, he felt two shocks of earthquake, apparently at right angles with each other. The first, he reports, had a vibrating motion, with a rumbling noise. The second as being perpendicular, and so violent that he was unseated from the rail, and the jibboom of his vessel was broken from plunging into the sea.

OTHER PHENOMENA.

The summit and side of a hill 1,500 feet high in Kau was thrown a distance of 1,000 feet over the tops of trees and landed in a valley below, the turf and trees covering the hill apparently undisturbed. A large number of horses, cattle, sheep and goats were destroyed by the gasses which issued from the hill after the removal of its summit.

In Kahuku a hole sixty feet wide has opened, the bottom of which cannot be seen.

The crater of Kilauea during the latter part of March was very active. The old crater to the eastward of Kilauea had opened anew, the banks around the crater have caved in several places, and large, impassable cracks have opened around the Volcano House, the inmates of which have left. Natives who left later report that the lava is receding in the crater of Kilauea very fast, being some 400 feet below its old level, and that very old craters east and south of Kilauea were smoking. Two or three large craters have opened on the mountain slope, running down some distance, one of them, seven feet wide, running down to the sea.

The worst of this earthquake business is probably over with now, as the lava has found an outlet. Large parties have been leaving for the volcanic regions during the past ten days, and more are going every day. This will probably bring many visitors from California, as it is the greatest volcanic eruption in the world's history, and will last for months, if not for years to come.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

The editor of the Commercial Advertiser, who has visited the great volcano, writes a thrilling account of what he saw, which is published in an extra. His letter is dated Kealakeakua, April 13th. He says:

My last was from this place, but I have since been to the lava flow, and witnessed the most grand, brilliant awe-inspiring scenes probably ever afforded to the people of these islands. My pen shrinks from giving the details of what is almost incredible, and what needs to be seen in order to be fully realized.

We left Kealakekua early on Thursday morning (April 9) a party of ten, not including guides, etc., and followed the old road through the Kona district. I cannot stop here to speak of our dinner at Kuamoku's, of our night's rest at Mr. Spencer's halfway house at Capua, nor of the tedious journey of 14 miles, or the wayside incidents, all of which may form the subject of another letter; but will bring the reader at once to the brink of the lava stream, which we reached at 2 P. M. on Friday, the 10th.

On ascending the ridge just west of and opposite the Mam du Pali of Kahuku and which was separated from us by a valley about one eighth of a mile wide, the whole scene opened before us in one grand panorama. The valley itself was floored over with a pavement of fresh pahoehoe lava, from 10 to 20 feet deep, which appears to have been the first thrown out and came from a crater about ten miles up the mountain, which burst out on Tuesday morning, April 7th. The crater and stream had ceased flowing and the lava was rapidly cooling, so that we ventured to stand on it, though at the risk of burning our boots, and being choked by the sulphurous gases.

On Tuesday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, a new crater, several miles lower down, and about two miles directly back of Capt. Brown's residence, burst out with a heavy roar and frightful crash. The lava stream commenced flowing rapidly down the beautiful plateau, towards and around the frame house, and the inmates had barely time to escape with what clothes they had on, before the houses were surrounded and enclosed with streams of fiery lava, varying from five to fifty feet in depth. Fortunately all the inmates escaped to Waiohinu, but how narrow the escape was, and how rapid the stream flowed, may be inferred from the fact that the path by which they escaped was covered with lava within ten minutes after they passed over it.

The new crater, when visited by Mr. Swain, was at least one and a half miles in extent, nearly circular, but constantly enlarging its area by engulphing the sides. While the above gentleman was looking at it, a tract of at least five acres tumbled in, and was swallowed up like food for the devouring element. The enlargement is going on mainly on the lower side, toward the farm houses, and it is thought its diameter is already about two miles. Four huge jets or fountains were continually being thrown up out of this great crater, ever varying in size and hight, sometimes apparently all joining together and making one continuous spouting a mile and a half long. From the lower side of the crater, a stream of liquid, rolling, boiling lava poured out and ran down the plateau, then down the side of the pali (following the track of the government road) then along the foot of the pali or precipice, five miles to the sea.

This was the scene that opened before us as we ascended the ridge on Friday. At the left were these four grand fountains playing with terrific fury, throwing blood red lava and huge stones, some as large as a house, to a hight varying constantly from 500 to 1,000 feet. The grandeur of this scene no imagination can picture—no one who has not seen it can realize. Then there was the rapid, rolling stream, rushing and tumbling like a swollen river, down the hill, over the precipice and down the valley to the sea, surging and roaring like a cataract, with a fury perfectly indescribable. This river of fire varied from 500 to 1,200 or 1,500 feet in width, and when it is known that the descent was 2,000 feet in five miles, the statement that it ran at the rate of ten miles an hour will not be doubted. We waited till night, when the scene was a hundred fold more grand and vivid—the crimson red of the lava doubly bright, and the lurid glare of the red smoke clouds that overhung the whole, the roaring of the rushing stream, the noise of the tumbling rocks thrown out of the crater, and flashes of electric lightning—altogether made it surpassingly grand, and showed that man is nothing as compared with his Creator.

THEORY OF THE ERUPTION.

A private letter, dated Honolulu, April 15th, says:

We are all in excitement over the news this morning. The eruption is by far one of the greatest that history has ever recorded, and sadly enough has lost about one hundred lives of Hawaiians, no white men, though the escape of Capt. Brown and family, near whose house the lava burst forth, was narrow. This is the idea of the volcano: The mountain of Mauna Loa has a base of say 300 miles in circumference, an active crater at its summit—Mokuaweoweo—another on its eastern flank, about one third of its hight from the sea Kilauea, and at various points on the flanks terminal craters, whence lava has burst out in the ages past. When, therefore, the mountains begin to labor with internal heat, and the pressure of the lava becomes too great for the flanks to resist—these are earthquakes and convulsions until a break occurs and the internal cauldron is tapped. We never know where this vent will open. At the last eruption in 1859 it opened in the northern flank and flowed 60 miles through a desolate region before reaching the sea. This time it was opened on the western flank only 12 miles from the sea, which it reached in three hours. It has taken a part of the island, where no flow has occurred for ages past, destroying grassy plains, houses and cattle. The vent is so low down that the flow is rapid, and immense amounts will be thrown out, as you may judge, for already Kalai point is extended out a mile into the sea. The flow usually continues some months, but even if it should stop soon the region is worthy of a visit, and full of volcanic phenomena for months.

FOR THROAT DISEASES AND AFFECTIONS OF THE CHEST, "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, are of great value. In Coughs, Irritation of the Throat caused by cold, or unusual exertion of the vocal organs, in speaking in public, or singing, they produce the most beneficial results. "The Troches" have proved their efficacy.

EVERY PERSON SHOULD CLOTHE themselves according to the weather. As the summer advances our citizens should not neglect to procure one of those handsome light weight suits KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, have for sale. A glimpse at their goods will convince ladies as well as gents that they are far superior to any others in town and the prices unusually low.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—The Common Council of the city of Portland met on Wednesday evening, May 13, 1868, his Honor Mayor Chapman in the chair.

The Board was called to order, and the roll was called by the Clerk. Present—Messrs. Burch, McCraken, Mulkey and Porter—5. Absent—Fechheimer, Hallock, Rosenheim and Ripley.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

On motion of Councilman Besser Councilman Burch was excused from voting on the passage of an ordinance providing for the improvement of Fourth street from Harrison to Carruthers streets, passed at the last meeting and the Clerk was directed to erase the vote from the record.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, ETC.

A petition from Richard Williams praying for a deduction of $4,000 from his city assessment was received, read and on motion was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A petition was also read from John Sweeny, praying for reduction of assessment for laying a cross walk abutting his premises on account of the work not having been done as ordered, and the sum being exorbitant for the amount and manner in which the same was done, which on motion was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A remonstrance from William Weatherford and others, owners of property abutting on Second street, and representing one thousand feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Also a remonstrance from J. E. Patton and others, owners of property abutting on First street, representing 674 feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

A remonstrance from W. H. Courtenay and others, representing 950 feet of property abutting on Front street between Lincoln and —— streets against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

A remonstrance was received and read from I. A. Marquam and others, owners of property abutting on H... ...ham street and representing 1,700 feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, and was referred to the same committee.

Also a remonstrance from James Stewart and others, representing 1,205 feet of property abutting on North Eighth street, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

Also a remonstrance was received and read, from Dr. R. Glisan and others, against the proposed improvement of North Tenth street, from "A" to "E" streets, ...representing 800 feet, which was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A remonstrance from G. Shindler and others, representing 3,766 feet of property abutting on Sixth street, between College and Pine streets was read against the proposed improvement of said street, and referred to the same Committee.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Streets and Public Property reported ordinances making the assessment, and declaring the probable cost of improving "B" and Madison streets, and recommended their adoption.

The Committee on Health and Police, to whom were referred the reports of the City Recorder and Marshal, reported the same correct, and on motion, the report of the Committee was adopted.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

A report was received and read from the City Recorder stating that he had earned fees as Recorder in city cases for the violation of City ordinances, and that there were ...being due and unpaid him the sum of $664 75, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A communication from the City Marshall was read stating that through misapprehension he had mistaken the date, and that the time had passed for advertising property for sale for delinquent taxes, and asking that an alias warrant be issued, and on motion the prayer was granted and the clerk was directed to issue an alias warrant.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE CITY.

Bills of C. H. Myers, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $216 87 for labor and material was paid; also Herald office for printing, $77 25; C. H. Woodward, per scription for city prisoners $1 and C. A. Stewart for work done one Madison street, were paid.

A petition from J. Bergman was taken from the table and indefinitely postponed.

ORDINANCES.

An ordinance reported by the Committee on Streets and Public Property, declaring the probable cost of improving "B" street from North Fifth to Block 10, Couch's Addition, was read and passed under suspension of the rules.

An ordinance reported by the same committee, declaring the probable cost of improving Madison street from Front to Sixth street, was read a first and second time and laid over under the rules.

A communication was received and read, from the Chief Engineer, recommending that a gas burner be placed in the hose tower of Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, which was referred to the Committee on Fire and Water.

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom were referred the petition of William Ralston for a deduction of the city assessment, by permission reported, recommending that the prayer be granted, and on motion the report was adopted.

ENGROSSED ORDINANCES.

An ordinance providing for the improvement of Front street, was, on motion, taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

An ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving Washington street from Front to East Park street, was read a third time and passed.

An ordinance relating to awnings and awning posts, was on motion taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property, with directions, if possible to perfect the same, as it was the third time the ordinance had been referred.

An ordinance declaring the surplus fund on the assessment for the improvement of Alder street, was read a third time and referred to the committee on Streets and Public Property.

A resolution was offered, read and adopted, declaring the intention of the Council to improve Fourth street from Harrison to Sherman streets.

A resolution, offered by Councilman Mulkey, was read and adopted, instructing the Clerk to draw a warrant in favor of J. J. Hoffman for the sum of $297 45 in payment of fees due him since the court had decided that ordinance No. 137 was null and void, which provided for the pay ment of a salary instead of fees. Adjourned.

PRESENTATION, AND A GREAT SPEECH.—Mr. M. B. Mil lard was the other day, made the recipient of an elegant silver mounted cane—a present from Mr. E. Campion. The latter upon presenting the gift, remarked modestly that he hoped his friend Millard would accept it as a piece of his personal friendship and admiration. Mr. Campion's speech was short. Our friend Millard, although surprised as he was, took the cane, bowed profoundly, scraped his right foot backward gracefully, cleared his throat impressively, looked at the cane admiringly, cast the light of his most bewitching smile upon the donor, and then in the most deliberate manner commenced a most ... speech which, the single spectator of the ...very, occupied just two hours and twelve minutes in the delivery. This may be an exaggeration of a couple of hours as to duration, but we feel that we have no right to contradict our informant. That the speech was eloquent we believe, without proof. Our friend Millard began with the usual orthodox formula, Ladies and Gentlemen—Gentlemen and Fellow citizens, etc., and immediately remarked that he trusted his friend Campion would not entertain for a moment, a doubt but that he would accept the cane. His friend Campion might also feel assured that he would accept it as a testimonial of his friend Campion's esteem for the humble speaker, however unworthily that esteem might be bestowed. (Cheers from the spectator for the evident modesty of the speaker.) He trusted (not in a business way) that his friend Campion still retained green in his memory the times when he and his friend Campion, as urchins, used to play together on Sundays the highly moral and instructive game of "marbles for-keeps," and how happy everything was and how high the goose hung in the moral heavens before that snake got into the Garden of Eden and spoiled things. He begged his friend Campion to stand with him for a moment on the Alpine heights of the Rocky mountains and to cast his friend Campion's eagle eyes to the westward,

where rolls the Oregon,
And hears no sound save its own dashings.

Should his friend Campion, in doing so, behold nothing but a wilderness of sage-brush, he hoped his friend Campion would look upon it as typical of the greatness and glories about to break out all over this country, and which he felt sure would break out as soon as the Oregon Central Railroad should be completed. Mr. M. then feelingly alluded to the halcyon days of schoolboyhood when he and his friend Campion used to paint artificial flies on their respected pedagogue's spectacle glasses while that potentate lay back in his easy chair, fast asleep on sultry July afternoons; and ... in graphic terms how he and his friend Campion got caned for it when the pedagogue awoke. After so many years, to receive a cane at the hands of his friend and fellow-sufferer, Campion he considered—and he hoped his friend Campion would pardon him for so considering it—a most remarkable coincidence. In '76 our forefathers fought for freedom and he desired to know of his friend Campion if he or any other respectable gentleman proposed now, to go back on his forefathers. (Cries from the spectator, "No! No!" Ditto from Campion.) This and much more of similar and dissimilar import did our friend Millard address to his friend Campion, and finally after a highly instructive discourse on the nature of Limburg cheese, the disposition of the Fejee Islanders to indulge in human hash, the probability that some time, if ever, the world would understand the principles involved in perpetual motion, as to the authorship of the Junius letters and "I've come home to die, by request, mother;" and after telling in exquisite taste an anecdote about his cousin's brother in law's aunt, who had but one eye and a tabby cat, our friend Millard concluded with the following peroration which we submit is as original as it is eloquent: "Let's take a drink." (Prolonged applause from the spectator.) It is needless to say that our friend Millard and his friend Campion did take a drink, nor that the spectator in view of his eminent services as cheer-man of the occasion, was invited to participate and did participate in the festivities which then and there followed.

ASKING AID.—The Record of yesterday says: Petitions are being circulated and are receiving the signatures of many ...sible citizens favoring action by the City Council to guarantee the interest, at seven per cent. per annum, on $100,000 of the Oregon Central Railroad Company's bonds. * * * It is satisfactory to know that the proposition referred to, which was first proposed yesterday, is meeting with all the success that its friends an...ted. The City Council will, of course, respect the will of the people and property holders in so important a ..., and be mainly guided by their expression.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Yesterday morning, George Willis was up before the Recorder on a charge of defacing a building belonging to another man. Before the trial could be proceeded with however George took occasion to inform the court that in his (George's) opinion, he (George) had a great deal more sense than had His Honor the Recorder. The court failed to see it in that light and sent the fellow to jail for nine days for contempt. At the end of that time he will be tried for the offense charged. Eugene Daunt tried by a jury, on the charge of defacing a building, was acquitted.

SPEAKING AT EAST PORTLAND.—Judge Whitson, of Polk county, by invitation, addressed the Grant Club at East Portland, last evening on political topics.

DEATH OF A FIREMAN.—News was received in this city yesterday morning of the death of George Butler, late of this city and a member of Vigilance Hook and Ladder Company. He left here some months since and went home on a visit to Germany. His brother writes that he died on the 2d of March last, at the city of Munich, Bavaria, of inflammation of the lungs. He had resided at Portland since about the year 1859. The flags of the several fire companies were at half mast during yesterday in respect to his memory.

DIMENSIONS OF THE NEW SAW MILL.—The new saw mill, being built by Messrs. Estes & Stimson, has become the most conspicuous building in North Portland. Besides standing on piles as high as the bank, it is two very tall stories high, is 24 feet long and 44 feet wide. Its cost will be about $30,000. It is estimated to cut not far from 200,000 feet. The mill will be in operation by the 1st of July.

CONFECTIONERY.—Messrs. F. G. Hilbert & Co. have started a confectionery establishment on Front street, in the building formerly occupied by Tracy & King, where they propose to manufacture candles of all descriptions and in any needed supply. Messrs. Lake and Hilbert will start this morning for a trip up the valley for the purpose of introducing samples among the country dealers.

HAD TO THINK.—Among the passengers by the Ajax, we observe the names of C. P. Chur ... and wife. What does that mean, Charley? You went to California some time ago, we know, a single man and a bachelor and as far as we know happy. Did you get broke and unhappy and desperate, Charley? Have you really gone and done it? We pause breathless for a reply.

OREGON PRODUCTS.—Arrived yesterday per steamer Senator: Troll carpet 21 ... kegs eggs, 7 boxes apples, 621 sacks oats, 25 gunnies bacon and 2 bbls bbls dried apples. Per Wenat: 86 sacks dried apples, 1 box eggs, 123 sacks oats, 40 qr sks flour. Per Alert: 700 qr sks flour, 184 gunnies wheat, 35 pkgs household goods, 2 coops chickens, 2 boxes eggs, 2 cases woolen goods.

THE FAIR.—The Ladies Fair at Oro Fino Hall is progressing with unabated success, the attendance last evening being greater if possible than on the evening before. The ladies conducting the fair, were quite as fair and as charming as ever and the audience was as liberal as literally could well be. The people must remember that this is the last evening.

NATURALIZED.—The following persons were admitted to citizenship yesterday in the U. S. District Court: Paul Richter, native of Prussia; H. W. Hyman, Prussia; Simon Wolf, Russia; Raphael Prag, Prussia; Morris Jonas, Prussia; Matthias Koshland, Bavaria; Phillip Levin, Prussia and Joseph Doongki, Russia.

ANNUAL MEETINGS.—The Nineteenth Anniversary meeting of the Oregon Bible Society was begun yesterday morning at the Congregational Church and the Annual Meeting of the Oregon Tract Society was held at the same place in the afternoon. Several Ministers from other parts of the State are present in the city.

FIRE AT FT. VANCOUVER.—An old and unoccupied barn in the rear of the garrison at Fort Vancouver, was consumed by fire last Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock. It was undoubtedly fired by an incendiary. The fire companies were out but could accomplish nothing toward saving the building.

HEAVY PIECE OF CASTING.—The Willamette Iron Works, yesterday cast a wheel weighing over 6,000 pounds—to be used as a driving wheel in Estes & Stimpson's saw mill. It is fourteen feet in diameter—the largest perhaps, ever cast in the State.

PERSONAL.—Bro. Carter of the Corvallis Gazette, came down on the afternoon boat, yesterday. He has nearly recovered from his attack of wit at our expense, and gets about very well without crutches.

THE WENAT.—The command of the steamer Wenat has fallen to Mr. Boone, late mate. Capt. Smith has retired to take charge of the building of a new steamer above the falls.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—No proceedings yesterday except to admit several persons to citizenship.

TO SAIL.—The steamship Active is advertised to sail for Victoria, on Friday, next at 6 o'clock P. M.

HARDWOOD, CARRIAGE AND WAGON MATERIALS, ETC.—We call the attention of dealers in the above articles to the advertisement of Messrs Geo. T. Carsleit & Co.

NEW HATS.—Meussdorffer received last evening a large lot of new styles of hats, and the largest lot of ladies' straw goods ever brought to this market, which he will sell at lower prices than ever before.

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE—Southwest corner Front and Yamhill Streets, opposite E. J. Northrup & Co's Hardware Store.

I am now making amongst numerous other styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr. G. W. Cool's Patent, patented Dec. 3, 186., the improvement of which consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold, it not only makes the plate double as strong and cleanlier than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common plates. Call and see specimens.

N. B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr. G. W. Cool's Improved Vulcanite Plates can have it made out to them by applying to this office.

N. B.—To strangers I would say, that a constantly increasing Dental Practice for the last five years in this city, will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimonials to the same can be given at the office.

A THRILLING INCIDENT

In the missionary life of Mrs. Ingalls in Burmah is well told in the Baptist Messenger, relating how she was sent for to visit one of the Budhist high priests, who had been nearly killed, and how well as in the most holy place in their temple, where none but the priests had ever before been admitted, she was permitted unrebuked to use for him the sacred vessels which none but the high priest dare touch and then even to turn and act on one of their gods to test all through the magic influence of the Pain Killer, called by them the ... ...so successfully had she used it in curing their many diseases, some of them ... deemed fatal in that climate, among which were cholera, liver complaint, dyspepsia, the bites of venomous reptiles, &c. This speaks volumes for the Pain Killer. ...

Rev. J. E. Clough, Missionary at Ongole, S. other India writes: "We rely entirely on Pain Killer very highly for scorpion stings, cholera, &c., and can ... very well get along without it."

Rev. I. D. Colburn, Missionary at Tavoy, Burmah, writes: "I shall be happy to assist in extending a knowledge of a remedy so speedily and effectual." ...

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the

STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels.
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness.
Cramps and Spasms and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or
PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element, no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last but not least it is the only safe stimulant being manufactured from sound and inocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive only after a trial, but only adds to the favorable reputation of the merchandise, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

The Great Trial

In Macaulay's celebrated account of the trial by impeachment of Warren Hastings, it is remarked that "whatever confidence may be placed in the decision of the Peers on an appeal arising out of an ordinary litigation, it is certain that no man has the least confidence in their impartiality, when a great public functionary, charged with a great State crime is brought to the bar. They are all politicians. There is hardly one among them whose vote on an impeachment may not be confidently predicted before a witness has been examined." If reports which are received from Washington be true, remarks like these will not be applied to the American Senate. Though in truth, the impeachment of an American President must always partake of the nature of a party act. Take the present case. Andrew Johnson has his political supporters who would not vote for his conviction, no matter what might be the nature of his offence. This action of his partisan supporters, who may be counted on to adhere to him under all circumstances, gives this great trial the color of a party proceeding. But if Johnson shall be acquitted, it cannot be claimed by his partisans that his political opponents, who have power to convict him, are not strictly impartial.

Several Union Senators, it is said, have taken the ground that the tenure of office act does not apply to Secretary Stanton's case, and therefore the President in removing him has not violated the law. This view may be the correct one. But in that case it will devolve on these Senators to explain to the country the reasons and motives of their former actions. The President first suspended Stanton under the tenure-of-office act as he himself stated to witnesses and also in an official communication to the Senate, when it assembled in December last. The Senate held the President's reasons for the suspension insufficient, and decided that Stanton should go back into the War Office in compliance with the provisions of the act. This resolution received the unanimous support of the Union Senators. But it now appears that some who took this view and acted in this manner have recently come to the conclusion that Secretary Stanton is not within the tenure-of-office law. Senators Grimes, Fessenden, Trumbull and others, by whose votes Stanton was reinstated last winter on the ground that the President had no right to remove him, now assume, it is said, that the President had this right, since, in their opinion, the civil tenure act does not apply to the Secretary of War. We do not complain of this last decision. It may be the correct interpretation of the law. But if it be correct, the people have a right to complain of the former action of their Senators. Men in this exalted station have no right to trifle with the grave duties which are intrusted to them.

Again, when the President removed Secretary Stanton in February last and appointed Lorenzo Thomas Secretary ad interim the Senate as soon as informed of the fact, passed a resolution by a strict party vote, declaring that in making the removal the President had "violated the Constitution and laws of the United States." It is now reported that several of the Senators who voted for this resolution declare that the President's action was not in violation of law. What explanation they will give, or how they will undertake to reconcile the inconsistencies of these opposite positions, remains to be seen. Without questioning the entire correctness of their decision in the trial of impeachment, we are interested in knowing what justification they have to offer for their former action, which is so grossly inconsistent with the position they now assume.

That the House would never have presented the articles had it not been for the stand which the Senate took, is an obvious fact. The Senators who voted to reinstate Stanton and who now declare that the President had a right to remove him, are responsible both for the trial and the failure, if, indeed, it shall prove a failure. They are the authors of this trifling with matters of the greatest moment; and if any blame is to be meted out by any party, it must fall on them.

We believe that a large majority of the loyal people of the country are in favor of the conviction of Andrew Johnson and his removal from office. But if he is not convicted they will accept the result, with some chagrin it is true, but with their disappointment relieved to a great extent by the fact that, since the trial has been continued so long he has but a few months more to serve, and also by a knowledge that reconstruction has now advanced so far that he cannot do what he will defeat its consummation.

We have never given the smallest credit to the assertion which has been heard in some quarters that the failure of impeachment would be the ruin of the Union party. To argue that that party rests solely on this measure as a basis, is a foolish absurdity. It claims to be founded on certain great principles of government and of public policy and has vindicated this claim before the people of the country. Its principles have long had a powerful hold upon the national heart, and public confidence in its integrity and the justness of its aims was never stronger than at this moment. There must be a party to support the great principles which the Union party has so successfully maintained. Therefore that party must both continue its existence and continue to shape the policy of the country. It has preserved our nationality, and its principles are the only principles on which the nation can permanently stand. It is absurd to assert that a party so founded can be utterly demoralized and obliterated by a mere incident which in the career of government, comes up for judgment in a constitutional way.

An Illustration.—The proposed fourteenth amendment to the Constitution provides that all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and declares that no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens. It also provides that if any State shall deny the suffrage to any class of citizens, the basis of representation in such State shall be reduced proportionately. This clearly leaves the exercise of the suffrage to be regulated by the States, yet we find Copperheads with their usual [illegible] declaring that under this amendment Congress will have power to interfere with the suffrage. The right of the States respectively to control the exercise of the elective franchise is expressly affirmed by the amendment, but this express declaration amounts to nothing with those whose vocation it is to misrepresent and mislead. They are not to be deterred by such trifles as the opposition of plain facts. While the amendment leaves the control of the suffrage to the States it equalizes representation in such a way as to give the Northern people an equal chance with the ex-slave States in Congress and in Presidential elections. To illustrate: Vermont and New Hampshire have a white population equal to that of Mississippi or Louisiana. Each of the last named States also has a black population equal to its white population. Vermont and New Hampshire each has three Representatives in Congress. The policy which the ex-rebels and their Copperhead allies are trying to adopt would give Mississippi and Louisiana each six Representatives in Congress and a proportionate number of votes in the Electoral College—the negro being used by the advocates of a "white man's government" as a basis for half this power. It is this inequality which the Union party protests against, and it is this which constitutes one of the great reasons for adopting the fourteenth amendment.

Nobody is astonished at any exhibition of impudence by the Herald, therefore nobody is astonished at seeing in that paper an article accusing its political opponents in this county of "quartering on the people" and "sponging upon the public treasury" because they have in two or three occasions used the Court House for holding political meetings. Expressions of the kind we have quoted come with charming grace from that paper, a beggarly starveling concern which is "quartered on the people" of the city and which would have given up the ghost long ago, except for the gratuities which have been furnished it by its partisans from the city treasury. Its propensity for "sponging upon the public treasury" was indulged last year to the extent of $1,200, and this year the indulgence of the same propensity promises to cost "the tax ridden people,"—adopting one of its own favorite expressions,—about double that amount. The whole people are thus taxed to support the "organ" of a clique, which has not ability enough as a newspaper to keep it from starvation. This concern which is supported wholly so far as it has any vitality by pickings and stealings of various kinds from the pockets of the people, only manifests its usual shamelessness by talking in the manner it has done. As to using the Court House, we merely remark that it has been occupied on these two or three occasions because there was no other hall in the city which could be obtained. The Court House, however, is a public building, and any party has a right to use it. When the Republicans use it the expense for gas etc., they pay out of their own pockets.

The La Crosse Democrat contains the following mysterious announcement: "On Thursday, April 23, 1868, we shall be prepared to furnish all parties to organize for the protection of life and liberty, white supremacy, State equality and equal taxation, the several blanks and instructions necessary in the formation of legions for the more rapid and effectual advancement of the grand national Democratic civil and military movement now on foot throughout the United States. Address M. M. Pomeroy, La Crosse, Wisconsin." This "grand national Democratic movement" will probably be found worth watching.

The coolest thing yet—to think of that eleemosynary institution, the Herald, denouncing the Radical propensity for "sponging upon the public treasury!"

STATE ITEMS

The Blue Mountain Times says that on the night of the 4th inst., eighteen head of horses were stolen near Baker City. Twelve of the same belonged to A. Bain, who spent the winter in La Grande. There seems to be a regularly organized band of horse thieves in Baker county. Probably most of the robberies committed in the Shasta, Rye Valley and Burnt river districts, and which are attributed to Indians, are the deviltries of men of white blood.

The body of an unknown man was found a few days ago in Powder river valley, near the old King bridge. It was supposed that he came to his death by heart disease. His undershirt was marked with the initials "C. R." There were no other means of identification.

A new quartz mill is on the way to the Eagle Creek mines. It belongs to the La Grande Gold and Silver Mining Company.

Grain is being hauled from Grande Ronde valley to Camp Harney.

Chinamen are buying up all the mining ground about Auburn, and in a short time will have undisputed possession of that locality.

There are many prospecting parties out searching for gold in Union, Baker and Grant counties.

A drove of 1,200 head of cattle passed through Roseburg one day last week on the way South.

Twelve wagons, accompanied by sixteen men and thirty women and children, left Union county about a week ago for the "Atlantic States."

The Union men of Douglas county are betting all the money they can get taken on the election of Logan.

The Sentinel says the indications are that the wheat crop of Rogue river valley will be entirely too heavy, and that it will break up most of the farmers to harvest it.

Letter from Philip Ritz.—We find in the Walla Walla Statesman a letter from Mr. Philip Ritz, who has lately spent several months at Washington City working for the Northern Pacific Railroad, and who has just been commissioned to explore the Salmon river valley for a route. He says:

At the time that the citizens of this valley are taking such an interest in agitating the construction of a railroad from the Columbia river to this place, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company are looking forward to the examination of the country along the Salmon river, with a view of running a line down the Salmon river to its mouth, and thence by the most direct practicable route to the Columbia river, Puget Sound and Portland. [illegible] that most of the public spirited citizens of [illegible] try are convinced that a road can be built [illegible] successfully from Wallula to this place at the present time. I am fully satisfied that if the line was built or even commenced in good earnest that it would have a great influence in attracting the direction of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to this place, and that the Northern Pacific Railroad will be built and that it will be the great paying route across the continent I am fully satisfied.

My object in writing at this time is to call out all the information possible on the character of the country immediately along Salmon river, from its mouth up to Lembi, as that is the only part of the route which is not known to be entirely practicable. The country [illegible] that the advantages of this route in securing large bodies of valuable lands on the Yellowstone and Bighorn, and the excellent pass through the Rocky Mountains on the head waters of the Salmon river, the [illegible] of the winters and the small amount of snow that falls [illegible] Yellowstone [illegible] and in the Salmon river [illegible] are sufficient to justify any reasonable amount of expenditure in opening a line down Salmon river. But the great object in examining this route is to lay down a line in the direction of San Francisco, along [illegible] base of the Blue Mountains, by Klamath Lakes [illegible] head waters of the Sacramento river into California, furnishing San Francisco with a road east without crossing the Sierra Nevada mountains, and running through a country susceptible of settlement all the way, instead of crossing the Sierra Nevada at an elevation which has been proved during the last winter to be impracticable during a great portion of the winter months, and also to avoid passing over the Great American Desert between Virginia City and Salt Lake.

I. O. G. T.—The following is a list of officers of Oakland Lodge, I. O. G. T., No. 81, for the quarter [illegible] May 2nd 1868: G. B. Young, W. C. T.; Mrs. [illegible] [illegible]

Details of the Great Volcanic Eruption.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Times writes as follows from Honolulu, April 14:

[illegible] has now assumed grand proportions and is making sad havoc in some of the districts of Hawaii. In the districts of Kona and Kau over fifteen hundred earthquakes have been experienced by the inhabitants, and many of them heavy and very severe. The heaviest one occurred on Thursday, the 2d inst., which was felt over the whole group. On Hawaii the [illegible] was heavy and terrible [illegible]. In the Kau district every house was prostrated with the exception of one or two; stone walls were thrown down so that hardly one is now left upon another. The district was visited with the greatest possible destruction. Perhaps it will be well to give our readers the fullest particulars of Mauna Loa in as short a space as possible, so we will commence with the Island of where Mauna Loa is convulsed with eternal fires. The eruption is on the very summit of Mauna Loa, at a place known by the natives as Mokuaweoweo. When the eruption first broke out in different jets of lava were thrown up at one time, and the column of smoke arising from the crater reached an altitude of 7½ miles before fanning out. The crater of the volcano was difficult to get to, and but few persons have ever gained its rim and gazed down into its profound and enormous gulf, 1,000 feet below the eye of the spectator. The ascent will now be comparatively easy, as the lava has burst out through the side of the mountain and is now running in one immense stream down through the district of Kahuku into the sea.

EARTHQUAKE OF APRIL 2D.

The earthquake of the 2d of April in this district was terrible in the extreme. At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon there came a loud, rumbling noise, from the south. Presently the earth moved to and fro, vibrating from south to north, then east and west, from that it seemed to go round and round, accompanied by an upheaving and receding motion, all of which were most violent, throwing people from their feet and prostrating them upon the ground, and they apparently bracing themselves to keep from rolling about. Walls and houses were thrown down and trees and rocks tossed in all directions. Land slides were innumerable and fearful, rushing downwards like avalanches, burying people, houses and cattle beneath them; the horses and stock of every description rushed and ran about in wild dismay, while some were almost transfixed with stupor and fright. An earth eruption was thrown out of the side of the mountain, and rushed with lightning speed down the mountain slope, throwing death's mantle over all that came within its headless, reckless course, which had attained a distance of three miles in less than that number of minutes.

DESTRUCTIVE TIDAL WAVE.

Nor was this all. Along the beach came a tidal wave over thirty feet in height, which extended along the coast for a distance of fifty miles. This came in washing right over the cocoanut trees and running some distance inland, carrying out a small native village (with the exception of two houses) and all persons that were within reach at the time, some thirty-seven souls, the rest of the village barely escaping. Two large pulu warehouses were carried out to sea, one with some 100 bales of pulu, being the property of James C. King of your city. Towards the southern point of the island a long chain of black looking substance was seen to come out of the sea and go under twice. This was seen by several, and some say that it was an island that was thrown up, but it was probably part of the islands thrown out of the water by the powerful upheaving and receding motion which was experienced in the earthquake which happened at the same time. All the foreign residents of these districts took warning when the first earthquake came on, and lived outside in tents, which was undoubtedly their salvation, as now their houses are now in ruins. Since the heavy earthquake many have left, some going into other districts but many have been coming here and going into Hilo.

EARTHQUAKE AT HILO.

At Hilo the earthquake of the 2d was felt pretty sensitively. It came on at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the same as over the rest of the Island. Here the earthquake was heavy enough to destroy a few houses, and shake all the crockeryware, etc., off the shelves. Three families have left their houses for good, having been rendered uninhabitable, through the dem[illegible] influence of the earthquake. The Hilo drug store was cleaned out of all its stock nearly, as every glass bottle or jar was shaken off on to the floor and broken. The proprietors loss in this case is unquestionably, the people of Hilo's gain. The sea here, rose some ten feet and washed in some distance, carrying away stone walls, etc., but doing no serious damage. In several parts of the town, cracks have been opened in the streets from one to seven inches in width. The chimneys of the Onomea, Kaiwiki and Spencer plantations have been shaken to the ground, and it is feared more damage has been done to the works of these plantations, which will show when they are in full blast. A great many shocks have been felt in and around Hilo, but further than mentioned, no serious damage has been done on this Island.

THE EARTHQUAKE AT MAUI.

You will please accompany me over to Maui. Only a couple of dozen shocks have been felt here, but the one of Thursday, the 2d of April was the most severe, and came as near as possible to making destruction without doing it. This earthquake was felt all over the Island and at Lahaina the sea was seen to recede, and ebbed and flowed thirteen times, as was the case in the bay of Kawaihae, on the Island of Hawaii.

AT MOLOKAI AND LANAI.

On the Islands of Molokai and Lanai which are very near Maui, shocks are experienced, and a tidal disturbance similar to that at Lahaina and Kawaihae was observed. Of course, the most has already been said, and in fact there is nothing left to enlarge.

AT OAHU.

On this Island, the first symptoms of earthquake we experienced was on Thursday the 2d and was strong enough to set things that were suspended in air vibrating in a direction north and south, and stopped several clocks in town, among them the town clock. We also had a tidal phenomenon, but it was just gigantic enough to see. To give an unbiassed opinion I should say that the tidal wave, as seen at Honolulu, must have been at least thirty feet high. On Friday evening we were again favored with a little more earthquake between 12 and 1 A. M., and had two distinct shocks, so those that felt them say.

The earthquake of Thursday was felt all over this Island but no damage was done. Kauai was undisturbed, as the people on that Island did not realize a shock, or even expect such a thing, so you can imagine they were rather quiet. The Island of Kauai must be disconnected from the rest of the Hawaiian groupe, as it has not as yet, felt the least effect from the volcano.

PHENOMENA AT SEA.

On Thursday, April 2d, Captain Ludlow, of the whaleship, reports being off Hawaii, and experienced several shocks at sea and that he saw millions of tons of earth falling down into the sea which were loosened from the cliffs that bound the northern shore of Hawaii. Captain Hunting of the whale bark Fancy was off the Kau coast and and at 4 P. M., on the 2d instant he felt two shocks of earthquake, apparently at right angles with each other. The first, he reports had a vibrating motion, with a rumbling noise. The second as being perpendicular, and so violent that he was unseated from the rail, and the jibboom of his vessel was broken from plunging into the sea.

OTHER PHENOMENA.

The summit and side of a hill 1,000 feet high in Kau was thrown a distance of 1,000 feet over the tops of trees and landed in a valley below, the turf and trees covering the hill apparently undisturbed. A large number of horses, cattle, sheep and goats were destroyed by the gasses which issued from the hill after the removal of its summit.

In Kahuku a hole sixty feet wide has opened, the bottom of which cannot be seen.

The crater of Kilauea during the latter part of March was very active. The old crater to the eastward of Kilauea had opened anew, the banks round the crater have caved in several places, and large impassable cracks have opened around the Volcano House, the inmates of which have left. Natives who left later report that the lava is receding in the crater of Kilauea very fast, being some 400 feet below its old level, and that very old craters east and south of Kilauea were smoking. Two or three large craters have opened on the mountain slope, running down some distance, one of them, seven feet wide running down to the sea.

The worst of this earthquake business is probably over with now, as the lava has found an outlet. Large parties have been leaving for the volcanic regions during the past ten days, and more are going every [illegible]. This will probably bring many visitors from California as it is the greatest volcanic eruption in the world, [illegible] and will last for months if not for years to come.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

The editor of the [illegible] who has visited the great scene of eruption, writes a thrilling account of what he saw, which is published in an extra. His letter is dated Kealakekua, April 13th. He says:

My last was from this place, but I have since been to the lava flow and witnessed the most grand, brilliant, awe-inspiring scenes probably ever offered to the people of these islands. My pen shrinks from giving the details of what is almost incredible, and what needs to be seen in order to be fully realized.

We left Kealakekua early on Thursday morning, April 9, a party of ten, not including guides, etc., and followed the old road through the Kona district. I cannot stop here to speak of our dinner at Kaumoku's, of our night's rest at Mr. Spencer's halfway house at Kapu, nor of the tedious journey, 14 miles, or the wayside incidents, all of which may form the subject of another letter, but will bring the reader at once to the brink of the lava stream, which we reached at 2 P. M. on Friday, the 10th.

On ascending the ridge just west of and opposite the Mauna Pali of Kahuku, and which was separated from us by a valley about one eighth of a mile wide, the whole scene opened before us in one grand panorama. The valley itself was [illegible] over with a pavement of fresh pahoehoe lava, from 10 to 20 feet deep, which appears to have been the first thrown out and came from a crater about ten miles up the mountain, which burst out on Tuesday morning, April 7th. The crater of this stream had ceased flowing, and the lava was rapidly cooling, so that we ventured to stand on it, though at the risk of burning our boots, and being choked by the sulphur gasses.

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock a new crater, several miles west and about two miles directly back of Capt. Brown's residence, burst out with a heavy roar and frightful crash. The lava stream commenced flowing rapidly down the beautiful plateau towards and around the frame house, and the inmates had barely time to escape with their clothes as they hurried before the houses were surrounded and encircled with streams of fiery lava, varying from two to fifty feet in depth. Fortunately all the inmates escaped to Waiohinu, but how narrow the escape was and how rapid the stream flowed, may be inferred from the fact that the path by which they escaped was covered with lava within ten minutes after they passed over it.

The new crater, when visited by Mr. Swain, was at least one and a half miles in extent, nearly circular, but constantly enlarging its area by engulfing the sides. While the above gentleman was looking at it, a tract of at least five acres tumbled in and was swallowed up like food for the devouring element. The enlargement is going on mainly on the lower side, toward the farm houses, and it is thought its diameter is already about two miles. Four huge jets or fountains were continually being thrown up out of this great crater, ever varying in size and hight, sometimes apparently all joining together and making one continuous spouting a mile and a half long. From the lower side of the crater a stream of liquid, rolling, boiling lava poured out and ran down the plateau, thence down the side of the pali (following the track of the government road) then along the foot of the pali or precipice, five miles to the sea.

This was the scene that opened before us as we ascended the ridge on Friday. At the left were these four grand fountains playing with terrific fury, throwing blood red lava and huge stones, some as large as a house, to a height varying constantly from 500 to 1,000 feet. The grandeur of this scene no imagination can picture—no one who has not seen it can realize. Then there was the rapid, rolling stream, rushing and tumbling like a swollen river, down the hill over the precipice and down the valley to the sea, surging and roaring like a cataract, with a fury perfectly indescribable. This river of fire varied from 500 to 1,200 or 1,500 feet in width, and when it is known that the descent was 2,000 feet in five miles, the statement that it ran at the rate of ten miles an hour will not be doubted. We waited till night, when the scene was a hundred fold more grand and vivid—the crimson red of the lava doubly bright, and the lurid glare of the red smoke clouds that overhung the whole, the roaring of the rushing stream, the noise of the tumbling rocks thrown out of the crater, and flashes of electric lightning—altogether made it surpassingly grand, and showed that man is nothing as compared with his Creator.

THEORY OF THE ERUPTION.

A private letter, dated Honolulu, April 15th says:

We are all in excitement over the news this morning. The eruption is by far one of the greatest that history has ever recorded, and sadly enough has lost about one hundred lives of Hawaiians, no white men, though the escape of Capt. Brown and family, near whose house the lava burst forth, was narrow. This is the idea of the volcano: The mountain of Manualoa has a base of say 300 miles in circumference, an active crater at its summit—Mokuaweoweo—another on its eastern flank, about one third of its hight from the sea, Kilauea, and at various points on the flanks terminal craters, whence lava has burst out in the ages past. When, therefore, the mountains begin to labor with internal heat, and the pressure of the lava becomes too great for the flanks to resist—there are earthquakes and convulsions until a break occurs and the internal cauldron is tapped. We never know where this vent will open. At the last eruption in 1859 it opened in the northern flank and flowed 60 miles through a desolate region before reaching the sea. This time it was opened on the western flank only 12 miles from the sea, which it reached in three hours. It has taken a part of the island, where no flow has occurred for ages past, destroying grassy plains, houses and cattle. The vent is so low down that the flow is rapid, and immense amounts will be thrown out, as you may judge, for already Kalua point is extended out a mile into the sea. The flow usually continues some months, but even if it should stop, on the region is worthy of a visit, and full of volcanic phenomena for months.

For Throat Diseases and Affections of the Chest.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" or Cough Lozenges, are of great value. In Coughs, Irritation of the Throat caused by cold, or unusual exertion of the vocal organs in speaking in public or singing, they produce the most beneficial results. "The Troches" have proved their efficacy.

EVERY PERSON SHOULD CLOTHE themselves according to the weather. As the summer is drawing on our citizens should not neglect to procure one of those [illegible] light weight suits. KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, have for sale. A glimpse at their goods will convince all [illegible] that they are far superior to any [illegible] and the prices on usually low.

COMMON COUNCIL.—The Common Council of the city of Portland met on Wednesday evening May 13, 1868, Mayor Chapman in the chair.

The Board was called to order and the roll was called by the Clerk. Present—Besser, Burch, McCracken, Mulkey and Pruett. 5. Absent—Fechheimer, Hallock, Rosenheim and Ripley.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

On motion of Councilman Besser, Councilman Burch was excused from voting on the passage of an ordinance providing for the improvement of Fourth street from Harrison to Caruthers streets, passed at the last meeting, and the Clerk was directed to erase the vote from the record.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, ETC.

A petition from Richard Williams praying for a deduction of $... on his city assessment was received, read and on motion was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A petition was also read from John Sweeny, praying for reduction of assessment for laying a cross walk ... his premises, on account of the work not having been done as ordered, and the sum being excessive for the amount and manner in which the same was done, which on motion was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A remonstrance from William Weatherford and others, owners of property abutting on Second street and representing one thousand feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Also a remonstrance from J. H. Patten and others, owners of property abutting on First street, representing 375 feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

A remonstrance from W. H. Courtenay and others, representing 950 feet of property abutting on Front street, between Lincoln and —— streets, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

A remonstrance was received and read from P. A. Marquam and others, owners of property abutting on Harrison street and representing 1,700 feet, against the proposed improvement of said street, and was referred to the same committee.

Also a remonstrance from James Stewart and others, representing 1,205 feet of property abutting on North Eighth street, against the proposed improvement of said street, was read and referred to the same committee.

Also a remonstrance was received and read, from Dr. R. Glisan and others, against the proposed improvement of North Tenth street, from "A" to "K" streets, representing 800 feet, which was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A remonstrance from G. Shindler and others, representing 3,786 feet of property abutting on Sixth street, between College and Pine streets was read against the proposed improvement of said street, and referred to the same Committee.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Streets and Public Property reported ordinances making the assessment, and declaring the probable cost of improving "B" and Madison streets and recommended their adoption.

The Committee on Health and Police, to whom were referred the reports of the City Recorder and Marshal, reported the same correct, and on motion, the report of the Committee was adopted.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

A report was received and read from the City Recorder stating that he had earned fees as Recorder in city cases for the violation of City ordinances, and that there were ... being due and unpaid him the sum of $664 75, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A communication from the City Marshall was read stating that through misapprehension he had mistaken the date, and that the time had passed for advertising property for sale for delinquent taxes, and asking that an alias warrant be issued, and on motion the prayer was granted and the clerk was directed to issue an alias warrant.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE CITY.

Bills of C. H. Myers, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $37.65 for labor and material was paid; also Herald office for printing, $27 25; C. H. Woodward, per ... for city prisoners $1 and C. A. Stewart for work done on Madison street, were paid.

A petition from J. Bergman was taken from the table and indefinitely postponed.

ORDINANCES.

An ordinance reported by the Committee on Streets and Public Property, declaring the probable cost of improving "B" street from North Fifth to Block 10, Couch's Addition, was read and passed under suspension of the rules.

An ordinance reported by the same committee, declaring the probable cost of improving Madison street from Front to Sixth street, was read a first and second time and laid over under the rules.

A communication was received and read, from the Chief Engineer, recommending that a gas burner be placed in the hose tower of Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, which was referred to the Committee on Fire and Water.

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom were referred the petition of William Ralston for a deduction of the city assessment, by permission reported, recommending that the prayer be granted, and on motion the report was adopted.

ENGROSSED ORDINANCES.

An ordinance providing for the improvement of Front street, was, on motion, taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

An ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving Washington street from Front to East Park street, was read a third time and passed.

An ordinance relating to awnings and awning posts was on motion taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property, with directions, if possible, to perfect the same, as it was the third time the ordinance had been referred.

An ordinance declaring the surplus fund on the assessment for the improvement of Alder street, was read a ... time and referred to the committee on Streets and Public Property.

A resolution was offered, read and adopted, declaring the intention of the Council to improve Fourth street from Harrison to Sherman streets.

A resolution offered by Councilman Mulkey, was read and adopted, instructing the Clerk to draw a warrant in favor of J. J. Hoffman for the sum of $29 45 in payment of fees due him since the court had decided that ordinance No. 437 was null and void, which provided for the payment of a salary instead of fees. Adjourned.

PRESENTATION, AND A GREAT SPEECH.—Mr. M. B. Millard was the other day, made the recipient of an elegant silver mounted cane—a present from Mr. E. Campion. The latter upon presenting the gift, remarked modestly that he hoped his friend Millard would accept it as a token of his personal friendship and admiration. Mr. Campion's speech was short. Our friend Millard, all surprised as he was, took the cane, bowed profoundly, scraped his right foot backward gracefully, cleared his throat impressively, looked at the cane admiringly, cast the light of his most bewitching smile upon the donor, and then in the most deliberate manner commenced a most eloquent speech which, the single spectator of the scene avers, occupied just two hours and twelve minutes in the delivery. This may be an exaggeration of a couple of hours as to duration, but we feel that we have no right to contradict our informant. That the speech was eloquent we believe, without proof. Our friend Millard began with the usual orthodox formula, Ladies and Gentlemen—Gentlemen and Fellow citizens, etc., and immediately remarked that he trusted his friend Campion would not entertain for a moment a doubt but that he would accept the cane. His friend Campion might also feel assured that he would accept it as a testimonial of his friend Campion's esteem for the humble speaker, however unworthy that esteem might be bestowed. (Cheers from the spectator for the evident modesty of the speaker.) He ... (not in a business way) that his friend Campion still retained green in his memory the times when he and his friend Campion as urchins, used to play together on Sundays the highly moral and instructive game of ... and how happy everything was and how high the goose hung in the moral heavens before that snake got into the Garden of Eden and spoiled things. He begged his friend Campion to stand with him for a moment on the Alpine heights of the Rocky mountains and to cast his friend Campion's eagle eyes to the westward,

where rolls the Oregon,
And hears no sound save its own dashings.

Should his friend Campion in doing so, behold nothing but a wilderness of sage-brush, he hoped his friend Campion would look upon it as typical of the greatness and gloriousness about to break out all over this country and which he felt sure would break out as soon as the Oregon Central Railroad should be completed. Mr. M. then feelingly alluded to the halcyon days of schoolboyhood when he and his friend Campion used to paint artificial flies on their respected pedagogue's spectacle glasses while that potentate lay back in his easy chair, fast asleep on sultry July afternoons, and described in graphic terms how he and his friend Campion got caned for it when the pedagogue awoke. After so many years, to receive a cane at the hands of his friend and fellow-sufferer, Campion, he considered—and he hoped his friend Campion would pardon him for so considering it—a most remarkable coincidence. In '76 our forefathers fought for freedom and he desired to know of his friend Campion if he or any other respectable gentleman proposed now, to go back on his forefathers. (Cries from the spectator, "No! No!" Ditto from Campion.) This and much more of similar and dissimilar import did our friend Millard address to his friend Campion, and finally after a highly instructive discourse on the nature of Limburg cheese, the disposition of the Fejee Islanders to indulge in human hash, the probability that some time, if ever the world would understand the principles involved in perpetual motion, as to the authorship of the Junius letters and "I've come home to die, by request—ther," and after telling in exquisite taste an anecdote about his cousin's brother in law's aunt, who had but one eye and a tabby cat, our friend Millard concluded with the following peroration which we submit is as original as it is eloquent: "Let's take a drink." (Prolonged applause from the spectator.) It is needless to say that our friend Millard and his friend Campion did take a drink, nor that the spectator in view of his eminent services as cheer man of the occasion was invited to participate and did participate in the festivities which then and there followed.

ASKING AID.—The Record of yesterday says: Petitions are being circulated and are receiving the signatures of many responsible citizens, favoring action by the City Council to guarantee the interest, at seven per cent. per annum on $100,000 of the Oregon Central Railroad Company's bonds. * * * It is satisfactory to know that the proposition referred to, which was first proposed yesterday, is meeting with all the success that its friends anticipated. The City Council will, of course, respect the will of the people and property holders in so important a matter, and be mainly guided by their expression.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Yesterday morning, George Willis was up before the Recorder on a charge of defacing a building belonging to another man. Before the trial could be proceeded with, however, George took occasion to inform the court that, in his (George's) opinion he (George) had a good deal more sense than had His Honor the Recorder. The court failed to see it in that light and sent the fellow to jail for ... days for contempt. At the end of that time he will be tried for the offense charged. Eugene Davis, tried by a jury, on the charge of defacing a building, was acquitted.

SPEAKING AT EAST PORTLAND.—Judge Whitson, of Polk county, by invitation addressed the Grant Club at East Portland last evening on political topics.

DEATH OF A FIREMAN.—News was received in this city yesterday morning of the death of George B. Tiller, late of this city and a member of Vigilance Hook and Ladder Company. He left here ... on a visit to Germany. His brother writes that he died at the ... of May 2 last ... the city of Munich, Bavaria, of inflammation of the lungs. He had resided at Portland since about the year 1858. The flags of the several fire companies were at half mast during yesterday in respect to his memory.

DIMENSIONS OF THE NEW SAW MILL.—The new saw mill being built by Messrs. ... S. P. ... Besides ... two very tall ... will be about ... feet ... 144 feet wide. ... It is expected that it will be in operation ...

CANDLE FACTORY.—Messrs. T. G. H. Bert & Co. have started a ... candle establishment, on Front street in the building formerly occupied by Tracy & King where they propose to manufacture candles of all descriptions and in any needed supply. Messrs. Lake and H. Bert will start this week on a trip up the valley for the purpose of introducing samples among the up country dealers.

HAVE THEY?—Among the passengers by the Ajax we observe the names of C. P. Cherry and wife. What, is that mean Charley? You went to California, some time ago, a single man and a bachelor, and as far as we know ... Did you get a wife, and ... Have you really gone and done it? We pause breathless for a reply.

OREGON PRODUCE.—Arrived yesterday per steamer Senator ... kegs eggs ... green apples, 891 sacks ... dried apples ... Per ... sacks dried apples ... kegs, 125 sacks oats ... sks flour. Per Alert 700 sacks flour, 184 gunnies wheat ... pkgs ... chickens, 21 ... eggs, 2 sacks bacon ...

THE FAIR.—The Ladies' Fair at Oro Fino Hall is progressing with unabated success, the attendance last evening being greater, if possible, than on the evening before. The ladies conducting the fair were quite as fair and as charming as ever and the audience was as liberal as liberality could well be. The people must remember that this is the last evening.

NATURALIZED.—The following persons were admitted to citizenship yesterday in the U. S. District Court: Paul Richter, native of Prussia; H. W. Hyman, Prussia; Simon Wolf, Russia; Raphael Frag, Prussia; Morris Jonas, Prussia; Matthias Kostland, Bavaria; Phillip Levin, Prussia and Joseph Gonngki, Russia.

ANNUAL MEETINGS.—The Nineteenth Anniversary meeting of the Oregon Bible Society was begun yesterday morning at the Congregational Church and the Annual Meeting of the Oregon Tract Society was held at the same place in the afternoon. Several Ministers from other parts of the State are present in the city.

FIRE AT FT. VANCOUVER.—An old and unoccupied barn in the rear of the garrison at Fort Vancouver, was consumed by fire last Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock. It was undoubtedly fired by an incendiary. The fire companies were on hand but could accomplish nothing toward saving the building.

HEAVY PIECE OF CASTING.—The Willamette Iron Works yesterday cast a wheel weighing over 6,000 pounds—to be used as a driving wheel in Yates & Stimpson's saw mill. It is fourteen feet in diameter—the largest, perhaps, ever cast in the State.

PERSONAL.—Bro. Carter of the Corvallis Gazette came down on the afternoon boat yesterday. He has nearly recovered from his attack of ... at our expense and gets about ... well without crutches.

THE WENAT.—The command of the steamer Wenat has fallen to Mr. Byrne, late mate. Capt. Smith has retired to take charge of the building of a new steamer above the falls.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—No proceedings yesterday except to admit several persons to citizenship.

TO SAIL.—The steamship Active is advertised to sail for Victoria, on Friday, next at 12 o'clock P. M.

HARDWOOD CARRIAGE AND WAGON MATERIALS, ETC.—We call the attention of buyers to the above articles in the advertisement of Messrs Geo. T. Cosebolt & Co.

NEW HATS.—M... offer received last evening a large lot of new styles of hats and the largest lot of ladies straw goods ever brought to this market, which he will sell at lower prices than ever before.

TO THOSE IN WANT OF PHOTOGRAPHS we would say that now is a first rate time to visit Buchtel's Gallery, where the latest and finest styles may be had.—J. H. Montgomery, operator.

I am now making, amongst numerous other styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr. G. W. Cool's Patent, patented Dec. 1 1866, the improvement of which consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold. It not only makes the plate double as strong and cleanlier than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common plates. Call and see specimens.
N. B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr. G. W. Cool's Improved Vulcanite Plates can have it made out to them by applying to this office.

A THRILLING INCIDENT.
In the mission life of Mrs. Judson in Burmah it is related in the Baptist Missionary ... how she was sent for to visit one of the Buddhist high priests, who had been nearly killed ... how, while in the most holy place in their temple, where none but the priests had ever before been admitted, she was permitted to use for him the sacred vessels which none but the high priest dare touch ... although the magic influence of the Pain Killer, called by them the ... medicine, so successfully had she used it in curing their many diseases, some of them ... fatal in that climate, among which were cholera, liver complaint, dyspepsia, the bites of venomous reptiles, &c. This speaks volumes for the Pain Killer.
Rev. J. E. Clough, Missionary at Ongole, Southern India writes: "We esteem your Pain Killer very highly for scorpion stings ..."
Rev. I. D. Colburn, Missionary at Tavoy, Burmah, writes: "I shall be happy to assist in extending a knowledge of a remedy so speedy and effectual." mldawlm

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the
STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers, Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels,
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or
PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.
NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element, no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.
Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive but a short time, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

Don't Leave the Farm.

Come boys I have something to tell you,
Come near I would whisper it low—
You are thinking Leaving the homestead,
Don't be in a hurry to go
The city has many attractions
But think of the risks and sins
When sure in the vortex of fashion
Ha a soul he cursed wished begins

You talk of the mines of Australia
They're wealthy in gold without doubt,
But ah there is ill in the farm, boys,
If only you shovel it out
The merchant trade is a hazard
The goods are dear both and then low
Better risk the old farm a while longer,
Don't be in a hurry to go

The great, busy West has inducements,
And so has the busiest mart,
But wealth is not made in a day, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to start
The bankers and brokers are wealthy,
They take in their thousand or more
Ah think of the frauds and deceptions,
Don't be in a hurry to go

The farm is the safest and surest,
The orchards are loaded to day
You're as free as the air of the mountains,
And monarch of all you survey
Better stay in the farm a while longer,
Though profits come in rather slow,
Remember you're nothing to risk, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to go

The Ku-Klux Klan.

HOW IT WAS BROKEN UP IN MEMPHIS—OPERATIONS OF THE POLICE—THE COMMITTEE ON ASSASSINATION

(Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune
MEMPHIS, April 15, 1868

Southern Democracy is likely to get well organized through the breaking up of a den of the Ku-Klux Klan in this city. That it is an organization looking to recovery of political power through intimidations, persecutions, and even assassination, of such prominent Radical politicians as are considered in their way, cannot be doubted with the lights before us here That it is controlled by the master spirits of Democracy in the South we are well satisfied from the manner in which its operations are smoothed over and concealed from the public by their press, showing them without doubt, in a certain extent at least, knowing to its calculations, aims and purposes Some time since the Northern public were doubtless startled through your columns to learn the particulars of the attempted assassination of Judge Hunter, of this city, for his official action Such a dasterdly outrage upon the peace and dignity of the State, instead of being rebuked in fitting terms by our rebel press, was totally ignored for reasons that, while they could not deny the facts, some of them must have been to a certain extent cognizant of such attempt before it was made. Why this conclusion? Because the leader in the outrage was local editor of one of these sheets, and that same sheet the morning prior to the attempt speaks of meeting parties in six or 6oo by appointment, the night before at "ten and a half," and rejected their offer with scorn, closing the article by saying "we are no assassins," thus showing at least a suspicion of some such calculation in the minds of some one. The attempt failed, but left the certainty upon the minds of Radical Unionists that a clan of the Ku-Klux had been organised in our midst, as also the painful impression that certain ones of our prominent reconstructed Democrats were knowing to its existence and designs.

A few nights since a descent was made by our police upon a den reported as a genuine conclave of these sworn assassins. Their papers, skull, etc., were captured and published to the world as taken from the person of the Grand Cyclops, who proved to be the same person who had led in the raid upon the House of Judge Hunter. The Democracy were in a fix, the matter must be pinched over somehow to kill the impression it would otherwise create. A rabid Democratic organ rushed to the rescue and told us of its positive knowledge that the party broken up was the "Southern Pride Base Ball Club," that the papers were copies of those of the old order of Sons of Malta changed to suit a lot of mischief loving boys on their evening larks, and the whole thing was nothing more nor less than the innocent amusement of a lot of young and innocent boys

The immortal hero of the Choctaw division, who presides over another Democratic journal fell into line and pitched into the Chief of Police, with his gloves off, for his gross and unwarranted assumption of power in breaking up a meeting of "respectable men," advising the young men arrested to at once commence suit for false imprisonment. The game might possibly have smoothed the affair somewhat, and it not been for a few facts that killed the story. The President of the Southern Pride Base Ball Club, not having been consulted in the arrangement, kicked out of the traces, and swore he knew nothing of such meeting club, and was sure they were no part of his club. And old members of the Sons of Malta soon knocked in the head the story of the captured papers ever being modified from the ritual of the oaths of that order, saying such a yarn was all humbug. So perished the first attempt of the Democratic journals to get their patriotic and chivalric pets out of the scrape of being believed to be a part of a gang of sworn assassins.

The next dodge of the Democratic managers was as smoothly gotten up. A card was signed by the young men arrested, purporting to be a frank confession of a few unsophisticated "Young Men of Southern birth and Southern sympathies," in which they drop the claim to the ball club, and in which nothing is heard of the constitution of the Sons of Malta, but the club is nothing more than a "glee club." In this the young men are made to appear in the role of a lot of innocents, who are imposed upon by one J. M Campbell, who, getting in as a member, under took to convert what was strictly a musical club into a political organization—to seduce them, in fact, to their ruin and destruction. Forgetting the old maxim of honor among thieves, they undertake to clear their own skirts by blackening the character of their former Chairman (Grand Cyclops), to that his evidence will not be believed. The oaths and rituals, published, they declare Campbell drew up with which to lead them astray, and that the same were indignantly repudiated by them; at which, Campbell, in a passion, gave the the information to the Chief of Police which led to their arrest. As circumstances, well known around town in connection with the explanation did not tally with the same, and the Chief of Police smiled, in a manner, when approached on the subject, that showed there were still a good many things remaining untold. The explanation, though plausibly told, did not go down with the community at large.

Three or four days since it began to be rumored about town that Campbell did not mean to be disposed of in that summary manner at all, and would retaliate by giving a somewhat different version of the affair from that in the explanation. Last evening's Ledger, sure enough, has a long card from J. M. Campbell, which certainly eclipses anything in the literary field heard of for a long time, in which he deliberately confesses to being the chief of a gang of sworn assassins, and says that he was introduced into the order by one of the sixteen who signed the explanation, and swore in by another one, both of whose names he publishes. He says that soon after being made Grand Cyclops, a committee was appointed to draft a permanent ritual, oath, &c., of which he was one, with another person whose name he publishes, that the papers, as captured upon him and published, were drawn up by them and sworn to by the whole gang. Soon after this was done a committee was appointed on assassination, of which committee he was Chairman, and that it is owing solely to him "that a somewhat notorious county official is not now sleeping with his fathers." He says, futhermore, if the young men wish, he will publish the names of the whole of the Committee on Assassination, as also the names of those elected to be assassinated, also that he has the records of the whole proceedings ever since he was initiated, and that if necessary he is "prepared to lay bare to the public gaze facts and figures, names and dates, which would send a thrill through the length and breadth of this land." This most extraordinary document has created an excitement, you may believe. The perfect frankness with which the signer admits his complicity, and at the same time dares the parties who are endeavoring to load him with the whole of the obloquy to deny his statements, are startling, to say the least of it There are facts now coming to light that show Campbell's story to be at least somewhere near the truth. It now leaks out that the Chief of Police some weeks since managed in some manner to get hold of the grips, signs and passwords of the order, and introduced some daring detective into the den who was present at the initiation of a member, and also when the vote was taken for the assassination of certain Radicals here, since then the den has been watched each night until broken up by the police, and the parties who were elected to be assassinated here, unknown to themselves, being guarded and watched over by police detailed for that purpose The original attempt on Judge Hunter having failed, and it being known that his house was watched by police, no immediate attempt was contemplated on him again The first person to be assassinated, the infamous county official" spoken of in Campbell's card, was Judge Barbour Lewis, President of the County Commission here He was to be got rid of first, and then the others, some five or six, in succession as proffered They were then A. J. Smith, State Senator from this district, Hon. Thomas Hamilton, of the House of Representatives P. D. Beecher, Radical candidate for Mayor in January last, and others are reported as on the list. Judge Lewis resides some three miles out of town upon a farm, going out home probably twice a week Unknown to him until now, on each journey home, in the evening, for three weeks past he has been followed by mounted policemen to endeavor to catch some of these "respectable men" in the expected attempt at assassination, in accordance with the programme as understood at the police office

Our Democratic press have certainly got a hard nut to crack this time in order to get their representatives and admirers out of the scrape in which they are placed by endeavoring to gull themselves at the expense of "Black Campbell" Of course they could not imagine Campbell would dare to face public opinion to the extent of confessing himself such a notorious criminal and reckoning on such fear on his part they presume they could cry him down and set clear their own skirts, but for once they reckoned without their host, and as he claims to have records of their proceedings to bear out his card, they have most decidedly caught a Tartar. No other could the young man in question have had any idea of the extent of the information of the Chief of Police, or they would have quietly packed their "carpet bags" and left for parts unknown, instead of allowing their Democratic champions to persuade them into such a foolish measure as commencing suit for false imprisonment in order to clear their skirts. Medical.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
616 KEARNY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco, Cal., for the treatment of Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, and all diseases of the Sexual Organs, whether existing in the male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. Persons who have been troubled for years and have paid large fees to be cured, and have been disappointed, will find it to their advantage to call at once, as they can be cured in a short time, and at a reasonable rate.

Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands there are in this city, both male and female, at the present time, who are troubled with a diseased secretion from the sexual organs, which is absorbed into the system. The Sexual fluid, consecrated and designed for the most holy purposes, when broken down constitutes, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. A diseased secretion, like a thunder cloud, hovers over the head, ready to burst with death and destruction upon the victim. Let parents, guardians and friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible and lonely maladies—for they are made perfect wrecks by the destroyer, and what is worse, are left to endure the most miserable cases without mercy or any sympathy. It is important to those who are afflicted, and to those who are interested in the welfare of the afflicted, to know that the Medical Profession generally, throughout the United States, are alive to the fact that these diseases are the most prevalent and destructive to society, confusion of the mind, loss of manhood, nightly emissions; colorless; slight disease, and the least excitement; trembling; palpitation of the heart; irregular appetite; variable temper, etc
YOUNG MAN, if you experience any of the symptoms enumerated above, pause in time, and consult the golden moment in which you may secure health and happiness. You may have strayed, and have ever practised the vice of self abuse, but remember, you have the seeds of destruction in your system, and their undermining ball will, sooner or later, dash the fair edifice of your str
